First Lady is heroine of equal rights lobby

By SARA FRITZ

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The women's movement has enlisted the help of a powerful lobbyist —First Lady Betty Ford —in its campaign to win ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment this year.

"She's becoming our heroine," said Mary Brooks of the League of Women Voters, one of the leading lobbyists for ERA. "She is very concerned and very involved in ERA."

The amendment, which would prohibit any law or legal procedure that discriminates on the basis of sex, has been ratified by legislatures in 34 states. Four more states are needed to make it a part of the Constitution.

In Missouri, where ERA was approved Thursday by the house and sent to the senate, several legislators reported they had received telephone calls from Mrs. Ford asking them to vote "yes."

Ms. Brooks said she understands that Mrs. Ford also wrote a letter to several reluctant legislators in North Dakota, which ratified the amendment earlier this week, and telephoned a senator in Illinois, where it will be voted upon soon.

The White House confirmed that Mrs. Ford had made these contacts and "was delighted with the outcome." A spokesman said the First Lady will continue to lobby in situations where she can be influential.

Her political activity is rare but not unique for a first lady. Eleanor Roosevelt set a record for involvement, and Lady Bird Johnson campaigned alone and with her husband for her beautification programs and in his political races.

"It's nice to see that kind of support coming from the White House," Ms. Brooks said, noting that Mrs. Ford's efforts help counter suspicions that ERA is a radical feminist issue.

"She's a Republican lady who's really involved," she added, "and up to now the only major Republican lady so far has been Phillis Shafley" —an Illinois woman who has emerged as the leader of the ERA opposition.

The Missouri Senate is expected to vote on ERA during the week of Feb. 17. ERA proponents estimate it will be a "very close" vote. The Missouri house vote was 82 to 75 —the minimum number of "yes" votes for passage.

Ms. Brooks noted that Missouri and Illinois are "Mrs. Shafley's territory" and antiERA activity in those states has been mounting over the past few weeks as the vote nears.

Other states expected to vote soon are North Carolina, South Carolina, Nevada, Arizona, Indiana and Florida. The League of Women Voters has joined with several other women's groups, including the National Organization for Women and the National Women's Political Caucus, to get at least four of these eight states before the year is out.

Cities see Ford slashes in aid as 'disastrous'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The chief lobbying groups for the nation's cities charged Saturday President Ford's proposed budget will have "disastrous" consequences that will force states localities to cut services and raise taxes. The National League of Cities and the U.S. Conference of Mayors said cuts in the Ford budget for aid to cities will force further reductions in essential services provided by municipal governments and create "emergency fiscal conditions in the cities." In a 90-page analysis of the $349 billion budget, the organizations said the cutbacks in federal aid programs "would virtually force state and local governments to take the unpopular steps of raising taxes, many of which are regressive, at the same time the federal government is prescribing popular tax cuts for itself as an economic stimulator." "The budget is so preoccupied with dealing with deficits ... and meeting the energy crisis that it does not adequately address the entire range of needs of the people and of the other levels of government," the report said. Allen Pritchard, executive vice president of the League, and John Gunther, executive director of the Conference, told a news conference, "we think this is disastrous" for the cities.

"If the budget is a headache for President Ford (as Ford recently remarked), it is a concussion for the nation's cities," the two men said. The report said that the cost of running cities was rising at an annual rate of 11 per cent to 14 per cent but that local taxes had risen only 8.8 per cent.

"Nevertheless," it said, "the budgeted grants for local governments fail to keep up with this inflation rate; indeed, in constant dollars, the budget actually cuts federal aid to cities."

Machinists to strike McDonnell Douglas

DID YOU SAY THE JUDGE'S NAME IS WATSON?

Bloodhound "Sherlock Phantasia" appears to have little interest in sniffing out the evidence, although he looks the part of his famous namesake while awaiting judge's decision at Crufts Dog Show at Olympia in London.

Walkout expected at midnight

SANTA MONICA (UPI) — Some 7,000 members of the International Association of Machinists were set to strike four Southern California plants of the McDonnell Douglas Corp. as part of a nationwide walkout against the giant aerospace firm.

A McDonnell Douglas spokesman at the firm's West Coast headquarters here said preparations were being made to keep all four plants operational during the strike with supervisory personnel and other help.

"The strike definitely will have some impact,but how much is not known at present," the spokesman said.

Members of the union called for a strike at midnight tonight at McDonnell's plants at Huntington Beach, Torrance, Palmdale and Santa Monica.

The workers, whose old contract expired Dec. 14, were seeking an immediate 5 ½ per cent pay increase plus 3 per cent hikes in the next two years.

Another 12,000 machinists' union members at McDonnell's headquarters in St. Louis, Mo., also were set to strike at midnight tonight.

A spokesman for the firm's West Coast operations said 11,000 members of the United Aerospace Workers employed by the company will report to their jobs Monday, dsepite working without a contract.

A top executive of McDonnel Douglas Saturday labeled the expected walkout as "unnecessary and reckless."

George S. Graff, president of McDonnell Aircraft Co., a division of the aerospace giant, said the company would not change the economic package it offered Friday to negotiators for the International Association of Machinists, Aerospace Lodge 837.

Although both sides said they are willing to resume talks, no new negotiations had been set since the impasse was reached Friday.

"We consider this (strike) an unnecessary and reckless action, and we deeply regret the hardships it will inflict upon thousands of our personnel and the economy of the St. Louis area," Graff told a news conference.

About 17,000 other McDonnell employes are expected to continue working during the strike in St. Louis, corporate headquarters for the company. Each month the plant produces 18 F4 Phantom fighter jets and three FQT Eagles, the Air Force's new air superiority fighter.

Graff said engineering, administrative and some assembly work as well as flight testing will continue indefinitely despite the strike.

Graff said the union should submit to a membership vote McDonnell's economic offer, which he said would increase the average employe's wages by about $1.38 an hour over the next three years. The average wage is now $5.82, which McDonnell says is the highest in the aerospace industry.

Cosimo "Gus" Troia, president of lodge 837, said the company's offer was "an insult to our membership and not worthy of even being considered for a vote."

Troia said the machinists want yearly wage increases of 10 per cent during the three-year contract term, plus higher cost-of-living increases and fringe benefit improvements.

Give aid to S. Viet 3 more years, then no more--Ford

CHICAGO (UPI) — President Ford says he is prepared to stop large scale military and financial aid to South Vietnam within three years if Congress agrees to appropriate sufficient funds during that time.

In a 50-minute interview with four representatives of the Chicago Tribune published in Sunday editions, Ford also:

—Warned of the continued dangers to South Vietnam and Cambodia.

—Criticized his former congressional colleagues for slow action on his economic and energy programs.

"I happen to feel very strongly, and I have consistently felt strongly that it was important for South Vietnam and Cambodia to survive and have an opportunity for free choice," Ford said.

The President then rejected a suggestion his support might commit the United States to an "endless succession of rescue operations there."

Ford said it was the "best judgment" of U.S. Ambassador Graham Martin —"who everyone tells me is an outstanding ambassador" —that "two years of the kind of financial aid (recommended), and military as well as economic, would in effect end or terminate sums of this magnitude."

The new budget calls for $1.3 billion in aid for South Vietnam and $497 million in military assistance for Cambodia over the next two years. Ford later changed his timetable to three years.

He said: "I would be willing to take sufficiently large amounts over a three-year period and say, 'This is it. If the Congress will appropriate it, I would agree not to ask any more.'"

To rally support for his aid program, Ford said he, Kissinger and Defense Secretary James Schlesinger and others "expect to speak to the people."

He said it would be an "uphill fight" but warned "if Phnom Penh goes down because Congress fails to act—and I use this only as an illustration—I think there could be a fairly sizable public reaction."

"In my 25 years in the Congress," Ford said, "I have never seen so many congressional limitations that have so handicapped the discussion of foreign policy." He cited as examples the "adverse impact on our relations with Latin America" and with Yugoslavia because of congressional limitations on the trade bill.

Ford criticized Congress for opposing his tariff on foreign oil without coming coming up with an alternative. "I really think they would have been better advised to spend the time they have spent going backwards, spend that time moving forward.

"Now so far to my knowledge, as of today, they have had no hearings in consideration of mine or the formulation of one of theirs."

Ford said he hoped Congress would act by April 1. "If they have nothing then in the first place I think Congress will have failed their responsiblities and I will have to pass judgment at that time as to just how I would handle the present import levy. I have the authority to keep it on, and that is assuming they don't take it away."

Shots fired at police officers at Sharkey Park

Pomona police are seeking clues today in the aftermath of a shooting incident involving three officers at Sharkey Park.

Sgt. Richard Hannibal and officers Reed Laney and Dale Le Fleur were shot at late Friday night after they stopped a car in the park at Grand and Park avenues, police said.

The three policemen had halted a car they believed was involved in a shooting on White Avenue, officers indicated.

While they were placing four juveniles under arrest for possession of marijuana and carrying a concealed weapon, shots rang out, they said, from an undetermined location.

The bullets apparently passed over their heads and no one was injured. Officers believe the weapon used was a .22 caliber rifle, but they have no suspects yet. They did hear loud muffler pipes of a car leaving the park after the incident.

Suspect allowed to go free

Stolen Gainsborough art found outside phone booth

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — A badly battered but restorable painting by 18th century artist Thomas Gainsborough was returned Saturday to the museum it was stolen from after authorities agreed not to prosecute a suspect in the theft.

In exchange for his freedom, the suspect arranged for the recovery of the $100,000 painting stolen Thursday from Hartford's Wadsworth Athaneum, the nation's oldest public art museum.

Police found the painting wrapped in a bedspread next to a telephone booth outside an East Hartford super market at about 1:30 a.m. Saturday. The painting was returned to the museum and shown to newsmen Saturday afternoon.

Officers were sent to the booth by an unidentified caller after promising not to prosecute the suspect, Spencer Wolff, 29, of Hartford. Wolff, arrested Friday, was released after the painting was recovered.

Strips of paint were missing and bare canvas was visible in about a dozen places in the painting, "Woody Landscape," which is at least 200 years old. The age-browned canvas itself had an inch-long tear in the upper right portion.

Roland Cunningham, the museum's conservator, who will restore the painting, called the task "a challenge but not insurmountable. It's far from being a basket case."

Ford to Name John Dunlop as next Secretary of Labor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford, faced with labor opposition because of skyrocketing unemployment, announced Saturday he will nominate Harvard economist John T. Dunlop as the nation's 14th Secretary of Labor.

Dunlop will replace Peter J. Brennan, who was popular with rank-and-file workers because of his union background as a plumber, but failed to win the approval of AFL-CIO President George Meany.

Brennan leaves next month. He will return to New York and a job with the Building Trades Council he had before joining the government in 1972.

Labor Department figures released Friday show 7.3 million Americans are looking for work. The 8.2 per cent unemployment rate is the highest since before World War II.

Sources indicated Saturday Meany favors Dunlop's appointment. An AFL-CIO spokesman said, "John Dunlop is well-liked and an excellent choice."

Two California brothers found guilty in mutilation killings

McCORMICK, S.C. (UPI) — Two California brothers were found guilty Saturday of murdering three Fort Gordon, Ga., soldiers, whose mutilated bodies were discovered last June near a reservoir.

Both were sentenced to life imprisonment.

A jury of 11 men and one woman deliberated nearly three hours before returning the verdicts against James C. Morrison and David D. Morrison, of Anaheim, Calif.

The Morrisons showed no emotion as the verdicts and sentences were read. Jackie Morrison, a brother of the two men, comforted his mother as she began to weep.

The parents of one of the slain youths, Mark E. Bennett, 23, had been in the courtroom during the six-day trial and as the verdicts were read Mrs. K.E. Bennett began to cry softly.

The Morrisons were convicted of murdering Bennett, who was from Glendale, Calif.; Eric Clickner, 19, of Mauston, Wis., and James Donaghy of El Paso, Tex. The victims were found beaten and shot to death near the Clark Hill Reservoir near the Georgia-South Carolina line.

In its summation, the defense contended the Morrisons were denied their constitutional rights and placed under duress at the time of their arrest June 12 in Portland, Ore.

Going to take time, says new labor secretary

JOHN T. DUNLOP

BELMONT, Mass. (UPI) — John T. Dunlop, President Ford's newly appointed secretary of labor, said Saturday he believes America can solve its economic woes, but that it will take time.

Wearing a tieless blue shirt and a checked sports jacket, the 60-year-old Harvard economics professor was interviewed at his suburban home. Dunlop is to leave for Washington Tuesday.

"I do believe that the country can solve its very vexing economic problems if it will pull together, as it always has in the past in times of great challenge," Dunlop said.

"I would hope that my experience can make a small contribution to this process of pulling together, which I think is desperately needed."

But he indicated that improvement in the economy would be slow. "There does not exist any simplistic kind of Ouija board, Aladdin's lamp or whatever you want to call it, that is instantly going to solve the problems," he said.

Dunlop said he would propose "policy changes over a period of years" that would result in a more stable economic setting.

Dunlop, who has served every President since Franklin D. Roosevelt, was asked how today's economy compares with the 1930s. "The numbers are out there," he answered.

He reserved further comment on the nation's unemployment until he appears before confirmation hearings in the Senate.

Dunlop said he had had experience with price controls on three occasions in the past and he generally would be opposed to using them now.

"My general view is that widespread introduction of controls is not very appropriate at this point," he said.

Dunlop praised Ford's recent creation of a labor-management committee and the President's proposed tax cuts.

Pounding his fist for emphasis, Dunlop said he felt very strongly in favor of the $20 billion tax cut agreed on by labor and business representatives earlier this month.

"To get them jointly to agree to that, to provide both personal income and business tax cuts, and then to urge that to the Congress as a means of restoring public confidence — that's the sort of working together we need," he said.

Mother watches as shark attacks, kills boy swimming near beach

SYDNEY (UPI) — A white pointer shark attacked and killed an 11-year-old boy before the eyes of his mother Saturday while the victim was swimming near a South Australia beach, police said.

The seven-foot shark tore off Wade Shipard's right leg while he was swimming to a fishing trawler to get fresh crayfish.

His mother, Mrs. Aileen Shipard, 34, watched horrified from the beach.

"He screamed to me, 'shark mum!' but there was nothing we could do," she said.

The trawler captain, George Mastrosavas, jumped into the water and beat off the shark with a fishing gaff while another member of the crew threw an anchor at it.

Mastrosavas pulled Shipard from the water and gave him first aid treatment on the beach. The boy died on his way to hospital.

Later the trawler's crew baited lines and hooked the shark. It was killed with a harpoon and pulled on to the beach.

Oil industry knew of seismic faults under offshore lands?

By JAMES J. BOYLE

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (UPI) — A conservation group spokesman Saturday charged that the oil industry and the United States Geological Survey were aware of a study showing seismic faults under offshore lands would be disturbed by oil drilling.

Shirley Solomon, representing Seaside Environmental Alliance, testified before an Interior Department hearing here into proposals to lease 10 million acres of outer continental shelf lands, including 1.6 million off Southern California.

Miss Solomon said an independent study was made showing the outer shelf was subject to potential earthquakes to a magnitude of 8 on the Richter scale.

She said the year-long study, made by an independent firm, was purchased by oil companies and the USGS.

There was no immediate reaction to the charges by either the oil industry or the federal government. The oil industry has maintained in its testimony that offshore drilling is need to help the country out of the energy crisis and that there are now adequate safeguards against potential oil spills.

Saturday was the last day of the three days of hearings by the six-member Interior Department panel being held at an elementary school here.

State Energy Commission Chairman Richard Maullin said the hearings were a sham. Similar charges were made by other state officials, including Rep. Alphonso Bell, R-Calif., and Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley.

A member of the panel hearing testimony, David Lignren, deputy solicitor for the Interior Department, denied the charge that the government had already made up its mind to issue the leases.

Lingren said the $11.5 million in the budget, which takes into account expected oil revenues, does not reflect a decision to go ahead with the leases.

La Raza teacher group outlines needs

Unemployment, juvenile justice, minority hiring programs in community colleges, and collective bargaining were among issues discussed by a congressman, a state senator and an assemblyman at a meeting Saturday of the Mt. San Antonio College La Raza Faculty Association on the Walnut campus.

Speakers were Rep. Jim Lloyd, D-35th Dist., Sen Ruben S. Ayala, D-32nd Dist., and Assemblyman Art Torres, D-56th Dist. Assemblyman Joseph B. Montoya, D-60th Dist., was represented by his field representative Luis Guzman.

Some 45 educators of Mexican ancestry attended the meeting which was in the Technology Center and moderated by Alicia Hernandez, an area coordinator for the La Raza Faculty Association of California Community Colleges.

Lloyd told educators he was aware that with high unemployment, those who suffer most are minorities "and this is an area where we will place strong emphasis," he promised.

Tied in with the unemployment problem, Lloyd said, is the problem of the influx of non-citizens from Mexico. "This is tied to the economic situation, and I don't know how to solve it."

Lloyd said he would not support dual citizenship for illegal aliens, but would support a five-year citizenship agreement similar to that the U.S. has with Canada, and does feel all workers should be paid the minimum wage.

Ayala said he supported collective bargaining legislation for school teachers, but not binding arbitration. Further, he said, he supported the Farm Labor Bill, but believes the Bracero program "would do us no good, just harm. No need to make it worse for the working people already here," he said.

Moe Berg biography reveals double life

Mediocre baseball player was top spy

By BOB STEWART

NEW YORK (UPI) — It was bitter cold winter night, with winds whipping in across the North River at 3 a.m. and battering the old World-Telegram building.

In the steamy warmth of the "Front Page" diner, a young reporter was gulping a cup of coffee, when a soft-spoken man dressed in a rumpled black suit and overcoat came over and said:

"Pardon me, but the counter man told me you work upstairs in the sports department, and I was wondering if you knew Joe Williams. I know Joe wouldn't be around at this hour, but I'd like to leave a note for him with you, if I may. My name is Moe Berg, and I'm an old friend of Joe's."

That was my introduction to the wonderful, incredible, loveable and funny Moe Berg, he of the brilliant mind and of a love of all sports surpassed by no one else I've ever met.

That night was typical of the way in which Moe would suddenly arrive in New York, vague about where he had been or where he was going next. The phone would ring at home, and it would be Moe, asking if we'd meet at the old Polo Grounds, or maybe at West Point, or would we be staying at the Ben Franklin in Philadelphia for the Army-Navy game. It wasn't rare for Moe to sit on either bench for the Cadet-Middie wars of those days.

He was, as is related in the new book about him, a spy of the first magnitude, even in the early 1930s when he started playing ball with the old Brooklyn Dodgers, launching a career at short and catcher that spanned 16 years and saw him with the Chicago White Sox, Washington Senators, Cleveland Indians and Boston Red Sox.

He ended his active role in the sport when World War II broke out in 1939, leaving the Red Sox bullpen after posting a lifetime batting averaage of .243. They kidded about Moe's anemic hitting, but they overlook the fine .288 he hit in Chicago in 1929. A leg injury wrecked his ability to hit for average thereafter.

Moe was a magna cum laude Princeton graduate, and had studied at the Sorbonne. He had his law degree and had passed the bar with ease, killing time now and again in Wall Street practice.

He went to Japan with Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig and the other greats of the diamond Golden Age, but in addition to playing ball, Moe took pictures in Japan too, pictures which would be used years later when General Dolittle and his flight took off from Shangri-La to spend 30 seconds over Tokyo.

With a total command of almost as many languages there are, Moe was often behind the lines in Europe during World War II, and dropping by parachute at night was not that rare an experience for the old athlete.

Moe knew them all. The military, the diplomats, the big wheels and the little wheels, yet rarely talked much about them.

But one Saturday morning before an Army-Navy game, Moe and several Army officers and a chap from the State Department were discussing what was, at the time, the first tentative Soviet-U.S. talks on nuclear arms.

Several divergent opinions were being offered, and various political and military men were being quoted as authorities when Moe entered the conversation.

"I hate to put it quite this way gentlemen, or to sound like a name dropper," he said almost shyly, "but when I was discussing the situation with The Pope last week...."

$4 million missile contract to General Dynamics

General Dynamics has been awarded $4 million more to an existing contract for continued development of the Navy's sophisticated Phalanx missile system.

The Pomona plant previously received a $3.7 million contract from the Naval Ordinance Command for the "close in" weapon system.

The Phalanx is described as a new, automatic, computer-automated rapid fire gun system to be used aboard ships against other missiles.

It uses a six barrel Gatling gun which fires at a rate of 3,000 rounds per minute. Precision radar tracks the projectiles, measures the angular error, and feeds back information to correct the aim.

From start to finish, the system's functions of acquisition, tracking, firing, spotting and disengaging, are carried out by command from the computer.

Initial installation of the sophisticated sytem is set for late 1975. It is believed versatile enough to be placed on a variety of ships.

The new funding was announced by Rep. Jim Lloyd, D-35th Dist.

Salt tolerant plants perfected at Scripps

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — A Scripps Institution of Oceanography botanical geneticist apparently has succeeded in breeding salt tolerance into one type of plant, a feat which is a small but potentially important step toward solving the world's food problem.

Mrs. Anne Radlow crossed a salt-tolerant gum plant species from Los Penasquitos Lagoon in San Diego County with a salt-sensitive species from Yolo County in northern California.

Salt tolerance means the plant can be grown using salt water rather than fresh water.

"It would appear, in this instance, we have transferred salt tolerance," she said. "The first generation hybrids are just coming up in quite salty water."

Whether future generations will continue to hold the tolerance is a matter for long testing, as a full growing season is needed for each experiment.

Tests by Mrs. Radlow as well as other members of the Scripps halophyte research group and other scientists throughout the nation could hold a key to abolishing famine.

Scripps researchers have grown barley and red table beets in full strength seawater and have grown asparagus, spinach, celery, swiss chard, sugar beets, New Zealand flax and some pomegranates in ocean water diluted with equal parts of fresh water.

Should the cross-breeding hold up for generations, it could mean the development of crops that would grow in salty wastelands and the potential use of ocean water for irrigation.

"We are running out of land which is not salty," Mrs. Radlow said. "The Imperial Valley and San Joaquin Valley are good examples.

"Over the years the salts in irrigation waters have accumulated to levels so high that many salt-sensitive crops no longer can be grown in certain places without expensive leaching operations."

For the past two years, Mrs. Radlow has been concerned with weeds.

"The two genre of plants I am studying are what most people certainly would consider to be weeds, or wild flowers at most," she said. "One genre is called lasthenia or gold field and the other gridelia or gum plant. Both genre have both halophytes (species which are salt tolerant) and glycophytes (salt-sensitive species.) There are something like two dozen species in each genre.

"We have two principal objectives. One is to get some idea whether salt tolerance is a simple characteristic involving only a few genes or a complex attribute involving many genes. The other goal is to learn how to transfer salt tolerance."

She has been collecting plants and seeds from throughout California and then crossing numerous species of salt tolerant with salt-sensitive. Her recent success could be a big step toward attaining the second goal.

Air war declared on polluted water

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The state has launched a "first-in-the-nation" air attack in its war against polluters of California waters.

In January, small aircraft began flying regular missions over wastewater dischargers such as canneries and sewage plants, photographing any evidence of possible non-compliance with water quality regulations.

"This is the first regularly scheduled comprehensive aerial surveillance program for water quality in the nation," said Win Adams, chairman of the state Water Resources Control Board.

Using airplane and camera, he said, a water quality engineer can check out water conditions in "significantly more areas" than ground-based surveillance teams.

Adams said the board's air patrol program sot only upgrades surveillance of known wastewater dischargers but also improves detection of water pollution problems in other areas, especially remote locales difficult to reach by ground crews.

The low-altitude aerial reconnaissance pinpoints trouble spots for ground inspectors who obtain water samples for laboratory analysis.

To illustrate the value of aerial inspections, Adams cited the case of an industrial company which reported it was making no discharge.

But during one experimental flight, he said, monitoring personnel spotted a pollution problem some distance from the firm's plant and traced a sewer line back to the facility. He said the contour of the pipeline route was clearly visible from the air but not from the ground.

Under threat of court fines of up to $6,000 for each day of unauthorized discharge, Adams said, the company acknowledged responsibility for the discharge and installed cleanup equipment.

In another case, experimental aerial surveillance of the Russian River drainage found unusually heavy amounts of mud in the river flowing past Healdsburg.

Low-altitude inspection revealed the source was a contractor who was carelessly allowing muddy waters to escape from a construction site near Geyserville. The incident was reported by radio to ground authorities who instructed the contractor to take immediate corrective steps.

Adams said aerial surveillance also is of "great assistance" in emergencies. During the shutdown of San Francisco sewage treatment plants last March, aerial photographs of areas surrounding sewage outfalls gave the regional water quality control board accurate information on the effects of the shutdown and extent of the problem.

"This type of evidence makes a dramatic statement," he said. "The visual proof settles a lot of arguments."

The water quality official predicts aerial monitoring will be "a strong deterrent (to illegal dischargers) and will help convince dischargers to cooperate with regulatory authorities."

The program which utilizes rented aircraft and will involve 600 hours of flying time this year, will focus on unique water quality problems of each region of California.

In the San Francisco Bay Area "prime targets" will be the many sewage treatment plants industries and power plants discharging directly into the bay and Delta.

AERIAL VIEW shows an industrial waste site near Napa. Airborne inspection can detech if highly toxic acids are escaping into California waterways. Program is first-of-a-kind in U.S.

Servicios paramedicos aprobados para Pomona

La firma de ambulancias Cole-Schaefer ha obtenido la aprobacion del Concilio local para proveer servicios paramedicos a los residentes de Pomona.

Charles J. Birkemeier, gerente de la division Cole estima que los servicios comenzarian este fin de semana.

La accion del concilio de aprobar la peticion, siguio un caluroso debate en el cual se solicito que no se tomaran decisiones al respecto por un termino de 90 dias.

El Administrador de la ciudad, Jerrold Gonce, habia solicitado la dliacion, para poder estudiar el costo, asi como el impacto del programa paramedico en la ciudad.

Despues de una dramatica apelacion por el propietario, J. Walter Schaefer, quien dejo furioso la camara una vez, el concilio aprobo la peticion de enviar una carta a los oficiales del condado de Los Angeles permitiendole a la compania a comenzar los servicios en la ciudad.

De acuerdo a Kurt Latipow, coordinador de servicios paramedicos para la firma, todo el equipo necesario estara preparado para comenzar para el fin de esta semana.

La firma cuenta actualmente con 19 paramedicos certificados.

Una vez proveido el servicio de emergencia, el paciente seria transportado en la manera usual al Pomona Valley Community Hospital o donde les sea solicitado por el pacienteo su familia.

La autoridades esperan que en elfuturo, el centro monitor de paramedicos, pueda ser transladado de San Dimas, al Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

No se determino inmediatamente el consto de los servicios para los residentes de Pomona.

Los precios son establecidos por el Concilio de la ciudad, y cualquier aumento debe ser aprobado por el mismo.

Smog ha aumentado en el 74

Los Angeles (UPI) — Estudios realizados por la Comision de Recursos del Aire, hand revelado que el margen de "smog" especialmente de oxidantes, ha aumentado significativamente durante el ano 1974 en el aire de la costa surena.

Pero aun es demasiado temprano, de acuerdo al ARB para deteriminar si la deterioracion de la atmostera que rodea la zona de seis condados, se deben a condiciones adversas del tiempo, o al aumento de contaminantes.

Jack Paskind, monitor de la calidad del aire, dijo sin embargo, que "comparado a cinco anos atras, esta mejor."

"No podemos decir que esta empeorando," dijo. "La unica manera de obtener un estimado para el 74, sera en 1975 o 76, cuando podamos ver el promedio de tres anos.

Miembros del ARB, dicen, sin embargo, que las condicion del "smog", ha sido en el 74 definitivamente peor que en los dos anos anteriores.

Margenes de oxidantes, el principal factor del "smog", ha ido escalando notablemente en la zona este, llegana un promedio horario de .63 partes por million en Upland, el pico mas alto desde 1970.

El maximo promedio horarior anual de oxidante bajo de 11.3 partes por cien millones en 1967, a 8.0 en 1973. El nivel del mismo en 1974 se apoximo a 8.7

But most have made it on their own

There's a recession for European kings, too

LONDON (UPI) — The handsome man with the look of someone who had seen better times said he wanted to be known simply as "Mr. Michael" and, when asked why, he said:

"You can't live on being an ex-king."

No one knows that better than Mr. Michael or, to give him his proper designation, former King Michael of Romania, once owner of 139 castles and estates worth in the tens of millions of dollars.

Michael, who was forced to abdicate in 1947, now lives in Switzerland where he represents a firm of American stockbrokers and has a share of a small engineering company.

Compared to the opulence into which he was born it isn't much. But it became clear a long time ago that the Romanians lost a considerable human being when the Communists ousted the last of that branch of the Hohenzollerns.

KING SIMEON

For Michael went to Britain, bought a small farm, dug his own potatoes and prepared his own pig swill.

He supported his wife, Princess Anne of BourbonParma, and their five daughters with toil ranging from manual labor to stockbroking and in that he is almost unique among all the ex-kings and pretenders to thrones now in Europe.

Somehow all of them appear to have landed financially on their feet when the smoke cleared after the dramas of their departures. In fact the only one known to have suffered actual hardship was King "Foxy" Ferdinand of Bulgaria, ousted in World War I, who died a penniless octogenarian.

The Union of Underemployed Kings, as someone once called it, received its most recent recruit last December when King Constantine, 34, of Greece lost the plebescite he had hoped would restore him from exile to the throne of the Hellenes. The very next day Constantine issued a statement accepting the result and began looking for something to occupy his time.

He lives in comfort in a country house in the stockbroker belt at Chobham outside London and he expects the Karamanlis regime in Greece to provide him with several million dollars from the takeover of his personal properties. In the meantime he is said to be financed by powerful friends, including the Shah of Iran, and if all else fails his wife, Queen Anne-Marie, managed to bring the family Romanoff jewels with her when they fled Greece in December, 1967.

Another hardworking royal figure is Prince Victor Emmanuel of Italy, son of ex-King Umberto, who married a Swiss biscuit heiress but didn't want to live off her and became a successful helicopter salesman. Although he and Umberto are now rich because the Italian government released the blocked fortune of the Italian royal family several years ago, he continues to work—and play —hard from his Swiss home base.

Among other ex-kings and pretenders:

Archduke Otto Von Hapsburg, pretender to the throne of the defunct Austro-Hungarian empire, is a landowner in Spain and political writer. He refuses to return to his native country because he would have to take an oath of allegiance and that might compromise the rights of his descendants.

Ex-king Simeon of Bulgaria, whose fater died mysteriously after a visit to Adolf Hitler in 1943, lives in an exclusive Madrid district with his wife, the daughter of a wealthy banker. One of his neighbors is Grand Duke Vladimir, pretender to the throne of Russia, who is married to a wealthy widow.

Ex-king Leopold of Belgium is a botanist and studies birds and butterflies at his French laboratory. Prince Louis-Ferdinand, head of the House of Hohenzollern, which lost its German throne in World War I, is a big landowner near Bremen and composes chamber music like his favorite ancestor, Frederick the Great.

Prince Paul, who heads the deposed Yugoslav royal family, deals in antiques and art in Paris. Fouad the Second, son of Farouk, the last King of Egypt, spends some time in Switzerland apparently in good circumstances.

U.S. now is world's leading arms merchant

$7 billion in armaments to Mideast with no ideological discrimination

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States has become the world's leading arms merchant.

U.S. arms sales last year totaled $8.3 billion, more than double the previous year's $3.9 billion and more than one-fourth the total throughout U.S. history.

Nearly $7 billion of the 1973-74 sales went to the Middle East, without ideological discrimination.

While President Ford warns of a "very serious" danger of war in the Middle East, the United States is busy preaching peace and arming both sides— Arabs and Israelis alike—with billions of dollars in sophisticated weaponry.

The stock explanation from the Pentagon and the State Department is that if Americans don't sell first, the Russians or somebody else will.

Since the October, 1973 war, Israel has bought more than 1,000 American tanks. The United States also recently sold 18 new wire-guided anti-tank missiles to an Israeli adversary, Lebanon.

In the Persian Gulf, where Iran bought $4 billion in U.S. arms last year, the United States sold Saudi Arabia 60 F5 jet fighters as part of a $750 million weapons deal. But Iran is getting 80 Navy F14 Tomcat fighters, which carry missiles and fly twice the speed of sound.

Other weapons have been sold to Jordan and oil-rich Kuwait and Oman.

Until the 1973 war, Israel's U.S. arms purchases totaled $2.5 billion. In the year following that war, it bought $2.1 billion worth, and now has informed the administration it wants $7.5 billion in arms in the next five years, preferably as gifts.

The United States and its major competitors, the Soviet Union, France and Britain, account for about 90 per cent of world arms trade. While much of Russian sales involve client states, the French often compete directly with the United States.

France has annoyed its allies in the past by selling to nations turned down by the United States or Britain for policy reasons, including India-Pakistan, South Africa and Latin America. It recently sold 44 late model Mirage fighterbombers to Egypt, which cannot get weapons from either the Americans or the Russians.

Now the United States and France are competing to sell a new jet fighter to a four-nation NATO consortium, a deal which would mean $2 billion to $3 billion in the short run and ten times that over the long haul.

The United States used to give away more weapons than it sold, mostly in the interest of national security and strategic support for European allies. That began to change in the early 1960s in the face of U.S. balance of payments deficits, and accelerated in 1973 with the creation of an interdepartmental committee to increase American exports.

President Ford said recently it is important to "maintain a certain degree of military capability on all sides" in the Middle East through arms sales.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger told a Jan. 28 news conference most of the arms deals are approved because "often the security problem is caused by a neighbor supported by Soviet or other Communist arms; that therefore, if the country did not receive the arms, it would be subject to this neighbor or else it would get these arms from other sources."

Besides promoting the security of both buyer and seller, the United States finds other benefits in the arms trade.

Among them:

— It reduces the balance of payments deficit, which has been worsened by the soaring cost of oil imports. The current U.S. backlog of $13 billion in arms orders also will help finance higher oil costs.

—It preserves arms and aerospace industry job threatened by the post-Vietnam decline in Pentagon orders.

— Increased production reduces the cost of weapons bought by the Pentagon and raises industry profits. Also, part of the immense costs of weapons research and development can be passed on to foreign buyers.

—It broadens the base of defense industry and promotes national arms self-sufficiency.

—It can influence the recipient, such as gaining favor with oil-producing countries or exerting pressure with a threat to cut off spare parts.

—It permits a standardized weapons system within the NATO alliance, a selling point in U.S. efforts to complete the sale of 350 new low-cost F16 jet fighters to a consortium of Belgium, Norway, Denmark and the Netherlands in competition with France's latest Mirage jet.

The critics see persuasive arguments against heavy U.S. arms exports.

Speaking of the India-Pakistan conflict, John Kenneth Galbraith, former U.S. ambassador to India, once told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that "if we had not supplied arms, Pakistan would not have sought the one thing we wanted above all to avoid— namely, a military solution."

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said modern weapons "are not used by military to defend the territorial integrity of their respective countries but to repress popular aspirations and undermine democratic institutions."

The Senate Appropriations Committee and the General Accounting Office have complained of damage to U.S. combat readiness in the F14 deal with Iran, which was sealed before the U.S. Navy's F14 order was filled and involved dispatch of American technicians with scarce skills.

MAY CO BUDGET STORES

The all purpose F16 jet

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Air Force's new F16 jet fighter is small, fast and comparatively cheap at $6.7 million apiece, a feature the United States expects to exploit in highly competitive sales bargaining with its NATO allies.

Now known as the YF16, the plane will be built by General Dynamics, Inc., of Fort Worth, Tex., under a recently awarded contract that might total $4.4 billion or more in Air Force orders alone.

It is a lightweight, cost cutting compromise for both the Navy and Air Force, which had wanted to replace their versions of the F4 Phantom jet with the large, sophisticated F14 Tomcat for the Navy and F15 Eagle for the Air Force.

As a result of budget pressures, the Navy's original F14 allotment has been trimmed and the number of Air Force F15s will not be increased. Each has been told they must make the F16 or a similar lightweight fighter the mainstay of their future air fleets.

The Air Force F15 now costs an estimated $14.6 million each, and the Navy F14 about $18.9 million. The F16 is pegged at $6.7 million in 1975 dollars, or less than half the cost of the cheaper of the other two.

The Navy has not yet chosen its version of the F16. The Air Force has made an initial order for 10 of the new planes, but wants 650 and possibly as many as 1,000.

The F15 is 64 feet long, weighs 40,000 pounds and has two F100 engines. By comparison, the F16 is 47 feet long, weighs 22,000 pounds and takes one F100 engine.

General Dynamics says the single-seat F16 is twice as maneuverable as fighters currently in service and can fly twice as far without refueling.

hervention in the Middle East in an oil crisis to prevent economic strangulation. The Pentagon has received letters from citizens asking why, in this case, it was selling weapons to the Saudis and Iranians.

Asked about the prospect of U.S. troops facing assault from American-made weapons, Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger replied, "It is not clear that the American forces would prefer that they come face-to-face with equipment supplied by some other power as opposed to the United States."

Before it adjourned in December, Congress moved to claim veto power over arms sales approved by the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the State Department. It approved a foreign aid amendment by Sen., Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., that would give Congress 20 days to reject any sale of $25 million or more.

In response, the Pentagon has informed Congress this year of three such agreements, involving $150 million in spare parts for Iran, $46 million in missiles for Israel and $229 million to modify Turkey's M48 tanks.

Eight years ago, the staff of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said the United States was submitting to blackmail, in effect, by selling arms to other countries out of fear they would buy elsewhere.

"It seems imperative that at some point the United States take the risk that great powers must take and simply say, 'No. Go to the Russians or the British if you must'," its report said.

"Surely such a policy of denial will have its dangers, but an effort must be made to slow the seemingly relentless pace of arms competition throughout the underdeveloped world."

In 1967, the year the committee report was written, the United States sold $999 million in arms. By last year the figure had risen more than eightfold.

Swedish jet dark horse

By EMIL VEIJS

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — The dark horse of the NATO plane race is the Swedish-built JA37 Viggen, a single-engine, all-weather interceptor and attack aircraft that can fly at more than twice the speed of sound.

The version offered to the NATO countries is called the Eurofighter and contains a stronger jet engine and more sophisticated radar and guidance equipment than the models currently in use by the Swedish air force.

The delta-wing plane is built by a consortium of Saab-Scania, Volvo, and L.M. Ericksson. Saab-Scania has designed and constructed the body, while Volvo, in cooperation with the American firm of Pratt Whitney, developed the engine.

L.M. Ericksson, a leading electronics and telephone producer, constructed the radar and a computerized system for performance over low altitudes.

"The engine, a JT8D, is very similar to those used in American commercial aircraft like the Boeing 727, 737, and the DC9," a Saab-Scania spokesman said.

The plane has two air intakes on each side of the pilot's cockpit, much like the French Mirage F1, and develops about 28,000 pounds of thrust. Its range is 400 nautical miles.

It is armed with either air-to-air, or air-to-ground missiles. The Viggen is also armed with one Swiss-made high-performance Oerlikon 30 mm cannon.

"The missiles currently used on the Viggen are of the latest type, infra red and radar guided, and are the equivalent to NATO standard weapons," the Saab-Scania spokesman said.

The Eurofighter version of the Viggen costs about $6 million, depending on armament, and is in production. "Since the Eurofighter is only a modification of the Swedish Air Force 37 Viggen, there are no production lags or difficulties," Saab-Scania officials contend.

"The amazing thing about the Viggen is that it can land and take off on very short distances and reach operational speed within a very short time. It is almost like a STOL (short takeoff and landing) craft."

The Viggen needs only 450 feet to take off and can land on crudely constructed strips, including roads.

China

"We were meant in some terribly imprecise way to represent the variety of fouryear colleges and universities in America today," the Princeton president said.

"We were received not just courteously but warmly wherever we went," he said.

"Certainly we tried to listen carefully and to learn as much as we could from the opportunities for informal conversation as well as from the many official visits and discussions.

"But reality is always an elusive concept and I would mislead you as well as myself if I were to claim to have returned with more than impressions, hunches and conjectures about some of the most important questions."

Highlights of his report include the following points:

Higher education was affected very dramatically by the Cultural Revolution in the 1969 period, when almost all universities were closed in an effort to curb elitist tendencies.

They have since reopened, but they still are troubled institutions. They still are in the midst of what was described to us as "the continuing revolution in education."

An answer over and over, and in response to a great many different kinds of queries, is —"that is still under study," or "we are still in an experimental stage."

The delegation of college presidents started out in Peking, went from there to Shenyang and Anshan in the Northeast, then to Nanking, Soochow, Shanghai and Canton.

They talked to persons at six universities, the Institute of Physics, the Academy of Sciences, a leading observatory, a middle school and several primary schools.

Also: a children's Cultural Palace, a May 7 Cadre School, a number of factories, factoryrun universities, two communes and a major hospital.

President Bowen said any system of higher education can be understood only in terms of the purposes it is intended to serve within the society of which it is a part.

"That simple proposition is driven home with special force when one visits the People's Republic of China.

"Many features of that country's system of higher education that differ drastically from what is familiar to us are related directly to fundamental differences in purposes and in values.

"Phrases of a kind appear over and over in my notebooks as statements of the fundamental purposes to be served by higher education in China."

Typical of these phrases is this one quoted by President Bowen:

"Education must serve the proletarian revolution; we must train successors for revolutionary leadership."

A refreshing difference between American higher education and that in China was the relative "freedom" in China from financial anxiety.

"One of the more pleasurable aspects of the visits for our delegation was the opportunity to spend 21 days without being reminded of the terrific financial problems that all of our colleges face here in the United States.

"This relative 'freedom' from financial anxiety is one which our Chinese friends enjoy and has been acquired ... at a cost in terms of other freedoms that is incalculable."

One of the questions about the future of China posed by President Bowen is this:

"Will the society have the educated leadership that it is going to need in the future?

"This question is based in part on the small scale of the current system of higher education, on the compression in the amount of academic study and even more on the lack of graduate study and basic research.

"It was hard for us to see how under these circumstances the current leadership is to be replaced let alone how growing demands are to be met.

"China now seems to be living heavily off the intellectual capital of the past, and to some extent at least, off intellectual capital formed in other countries.

"To what extent —and for how long and with what consequences —can this continue?

"That I think is a question of fundamental importance for the Chinese and for all of us who will be watching what they do."

Malnourished horse probe kept secret for 3 months

By MAE TATE
P-B Staff Writer

A report by a long-time veterinarian at Rex Ellsworth's Chino ranch prompted an investigation of malnourished horses there last October, it has been learned.

This was some three months before the Los Angeles Chapter of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (SPCA) arrived at the ranch in late January.

While officials of the San Bernardino County Health Department showed interest in the October warning, they took no action. In fact the investigating veterinarian found the horses "definitely improved" in December.

The impounding of more than 100 malnourished brood mares in foal by the SPCA and the subsequent national publicity thus followed attempts by local health officers to deal quietly with the problem for three months.

Meanwhile, the San Bernardino County District Attorney's Office is continuing its investigation and hasn't decided whether criminal charges will be filed, a spokesman said.

Los Angeles Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals officials said this morning they were pleased with the progress the 124 remaining horses are making.

SPCA veterinarian doctors said that the horses are now being fed three times a day and are being given a pellet food supplement. No further foals have been born to the horses, but no abortions have been needed and no miscarriages reported.

Dr. Alice De Groot, resident veterinarian at the famed thoroughbred ranch for nearly 15 years, submitted the original request for an investigation of conditions on the Ellsworth property to Bruce Richards, director of the Pomona Valley Humane Society, last year.

"I agonized over that decision for weeks before actually making it. I did not want to bring down the wrath of God on their (the Ellsworths) heads. They gave me my whole life," Dr. De Groot admitted this week. "That ranch is my life. I lost my sense of identity. The ranch was me and I was it."

Richards confirmed that the ranch veterinarian was first in a series of persons submitting complaints about the condition of horses at the Chino ranch.

"I felt like a German child, turning her parents in to the Gestapo," Dr. De Groot confessed.

Richards said:

"I think people should know that this investigation became possible because Dr. Groot called me in October and told me the horses were in need of a supplementary or higher grade of feeding program because there was not sufficient amount of pasture grass or feed coming in on delivery trucks t sustain the horses through the winter.'

Richards contcted the San Bernardino County Health Department' animal regulation division and was referred to Dr. Robert Jackson. Richard admitted that although the matter wa not within his chapter's legal jurisdiction, his office "could provide some expertise in the investigation because w were familiar with the humane law for the treatment of animals and th interpretation of those laws."

TREE TRIMMING

Ornamental horticultural students from Cal Poly work at trimming trees at Memorial Park in Claremont Friday. Homesteading of abandoned homes goes before council

Homesteading of abandoned properties in Pomona will be considered Monday night by the Pomona City Council.

The city has received a property from the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), and the council will be asked to designate the property as a test model for homesteading in the city.

The property is located at 949 Asbury Ave. It is the first of about 50 abandoned homes scheduled for the program.

If approved, the property will be homesteaded under control of the proposed ordinance now under consideration by the Valley Association of Cities.

Basically, the ordinance provides for a $2,000 investment by the buyer, with a requirement that home be occupied and rehabilitated by the buyer within a two to three year period.

Other agenda items for the 8 p.m. meeting include a report from the Mayor's Committee on Beautification. The report designates proposed beautification projects that would be financed under the Community Development program.

Projects listed for first year funding are city entranceway areas at Holt Avenue and Indian Hill Boulevard, Garey Avenue at the Pomona Freeway, and Mission Boulevard at the Corona Expressway. Proposed expenditures at the three sites total $240,000.

The council will also receive reports concerning the city's housing lease assistance program and redevelopment.

In case May 27 school tax override fails

$1.9 million to be trimmed from '75-76 budget

Pomona school board Tuesday will be asked to take action on deep 1975-76 budget cuts recommended by the administration which would eliminate 110 positions and all high school team sports.

The cuts are being recommended to keep spending in line with income next year.

Should a scheduled May 27 tax override pass, cuts will not be necessary.

The board meeting will be held in the board room of the Education Center at 800 S. Garey Ave. It will be open to the public.

Cutbacks totaling $1,922,963 will be recommended by the administration. This figure differs from the $1.8 million announced by the administration last week.

Administrators now estimate cost of $153,000 in effecting the cuts, with a savings for 1975-76 of $1,722,962.

The costs would be created in moving the continuation high school to another location, moving the adult school into another building and moving portable buildings.

In addition to the elimination of high schools sports, the administration is recommending the closure of two small elementary schools. Allison with an enrollment of 353 and Yorba with an enrollment of only 227.

These two sites, according to the plan, would be used for the continuation high school and the adult school, repectively.

Passage of the May 27 override would make the cutbacks academic. However, the administration cannot wait until after the election to formulate a contingency plan.

Certificated employes — administrators and teachers — must be notified in March if the are not to be rehired in September.

This will be the 12th time since 1956 the district has gone to the voters for more money. Voters approved only three requests through last November. The last to win approval was in 1968.

The district asked for 72 cents per $100 assessed valuation last June to raise $1.5 million. It was turned down. Voters on Nov. 5 rejected a $1.44 proposal, which would have raised $3 million.

"We projected in our last election," said Schools Supt. Robert E. Wentz, "the necessity for $3 million to make up a $1 million deficit this year and provide $2 million to maintain present levels in 1975-76 under inflationary trends."

However, Wentz explained, increased adult education and summer school enrollment, and a more stable elementary and secondary enrollment, has brought the district's average daily attendance (ADA) to 24,358, eliminating the projected $1 million deficit.

The current $25 million budget, Wentz said, was figured on an ADA of 22,124.

"Our primary problem now lies in securing adequate resources to cover the results of inflation," said Wentz.

Pomona businessman Roy O. Day, a former school board member, heads the committee working for approval of the May 27 override.

Valentine's Day blood donor march planned

Hundreds of doctors' wives in Los Angeles County will "pound the pavement" on Valentine's Day Friday to personally distribute Red Cross Blood Program promotional material to the offices of more than 5,000 physicians.

Leading the project in the valley are Mrs. Calvin B. Chamberlain, president of Pomona District 14 LACMA Auxiliary, and Mrs. Carroll White, community health chairman.

The project is an all-out effort by the county Auxiliary of the Los Angeles County Medical Association to help recruit donors from among doctors and their patients.

The program is to aid the campaign of the Red Cross Blood Program to help the more than 240 hospitals in Los Angeles and Orange counties with all their blood needs from volunteer donors.

Red Cross estimates that an adequate total supply of blood from volunteers donors is 350,000 pints annually. The current annual Red Cross production is about 286,000 pints.

May drop theft charges against truck driver

The West Valley Deputy District Attorney's Office may not prosecute a 22-year-old truck driver accused of stealing a truck with a $15,000 cargo from an Ontario truck stop last October.

Ontario police said a relief truck driver identified as Art Scribner, 22, of Arkansas surrendered himself to Federal Bureau of Investigation agents in San Francisco about two weeks after the truck and cargo were stolen.

The tractor and trailer, with its cargo still intact, were recovered in San Francisco and returned to the R. J. McAdams Co., of Industry.

Police said that the FBI, after hearing Scribner's story about the truck theft, decided not to prosecute. Scribner told authorities that he was having domestic troubles and decided to take the truck to San Francisco because he could not get a ride on the freeway.

McAdams Co. officials told the district attorney's office they still desired prosecution of Scribner, but learned that he had been extradited to New Mexico on another unrelated charge and had been sentenced to a jail term. The Denver District Attorney's Office told Ontario police that it might extradite Scribner from New Mexico for prosecution.

The political arena

McVittie kills bill; saves cities dollars

ASSEMBLYMAN BILL MCVITTIE, D-40th Dist., said he was able to kill a bill during a recent committee hearing that would have resulted in a major revenue loss to local governments.

The measure, offered by Assemblyman Dan Boatwright, D-Concord, sought to limit the increase in property values to the consumer price index.

In effect, this would serve to reduce assessed valuations without making any provisions to reimburse local governments, said McVittie.

McVittie, who serves as vice chairman of the Assembly's Revenue and Taxation Committee, said he assumed the chairman's seat when Boatwright vacated it to present his bill.

Resolutions opposing the measure were sent to McVittie from the cities of Pomona, Chino, Montclair, Ontario and Upland. In addition, Mayor Harold Hayes of Montclair testified for the League of California Cities in opposition to the proposal.

"This measure constituted a violation of the home rule concept," said McVittie, "Maximum tax rates of local cities are already limited by SB 90. This law would have deprived the local communities of revenue necessary to balance their budgets."

Although it is difficult for a freshman legislator to hold back a committee chairman's bill, McVittie said, he believed this represented a poor tax policy.

REP. TIM LLOYD, D-35th Dist., said he is in "staunch opposition" to President Ford's request for $722 million in military aid to South Vietnam and Cambodia.

"It is time for the United States to begin working on solutions to the human needs of the people of Indochina and stop contributing to those problems with military means."

The President's request includes $300 million for South Vietnam and $222 million for Cambodia, he said. "What the President has chosen to play down is that in the current fiscal year, South Vietnam is already receiving $700 million in U.S. aid and Cambodia is receiving $377 million."

Lloyd said he can't justify further military aid to these nations beyond the current year. "We should, instead, replace guns, bullets and artillery with programs to help solve health, agricultural, educational and population problems."

WILLIAM S. BANOWSKY, president of Pepperdine University and a Republican national committeeman, will speak Feb. 20 to members of the 64th Assembly District Republican Club.

The dinner, held at the Pomona Valley Country Club in Walnut, will in conjunction with the group's annual Lincoln Day program.

In a series of speeches, Banowsky has been telling Republicans that the "best time to buy stock is when it is low."

Noting the Republican Party's magnitude of defeat last November, he claims "this year is going to be remembered as when the hard working, grass roots workers help revitalize the party."

For more information on the dinner, persons may call Jim Hubler at (213) 943-7203. Cost is $12.50 per person. The reservation deadline is Feb. 16.

Y reelects Kettenhoffen

PLAN MARCH

Mrs. Calvin B. Chamberlain, left, president of Pomona District 14, Los Angeles County Medical Association Women's Auxiliary, and Mrs. Carroll White, community health chairman, will lead campaign to deliver Red Cross Blood Program promotional materials to doctors' offices.

Opinion

The economy: not 'as bad as'

The Commerce Department reports that its index of leading economic indicators—a composite of 12 basic measurements of economic activity—dipped in December for the fifth straight month.

The overall decline registered in those five months was 11 per cent, making it the deepest sustained drop since the index was created in 1948 and confirming what everybody already knows—that the country is in its worst slump since before World War II.

But "worst since" is still a heck of a long way from "as bad as."

Despite the fact that economic prospects for the coming year are far from bright, they do not justify the widespread popular feeling that the United States is entering or headed for economic disaster resembling the Great Depression of the 1930s.

This, at any rate, is the view of Dr. Larry Kimbell of the UCLA graduate school of business management.

Kimbell, director of economic models for the school's Business Forecasting Project, cites the following comparisons between the Great Depression and the outlook for 1975:

(1) Unemployment: In the Depression, it was over 20 per cent for four years and averaged a staggering 19 per cent for the nine years from 1931 to 1939. In 1974, it averaged 5.5 per cent, will average less than 8 per cent in 1975 and is expected to drop below 6 per cent by the end of 1976.

(2) Consumption expenditures, adjusted for inflation: In the Depression, they fell almost 20 per cent from 1929 to 1933, whereas from 1973 to 1975 they are expected to rise by 1.5 per cent.

(3) Gross private domestic investment, adjusted for inflation: It fell 87 per cent from 1929 to 1933, while it is predicted to fall 19 per cent from 1973 to 1975.

(4) Gross national product, adjusted for inflation: It fell 30 per cent from 1929 to 1933, but it is predicted to fall less than 4 per cent from 1973 to 1975.

The comparisons could be extended almost endlessly, says Kimbell—to personal income, to corporate profits, etc.—and every one indicates that this recession will be "radically less severe" than the Great Depression.

Why then do the polls show that so many people think we are headed for another Great Depression?

"It's hard to say whether it's nostalgia, fantasy or a substitute for a good disaster movie," suggests Kimbell.

Tragedy by the numbers

Confucious might have said it: One statistic is worth a thousand words of speculation about what is going on in China.

Approximately 30,000 Chinese fled the mainland to Hong Kong during 1974, according to the annual report of the International Rescue Committee. More than 7,000 of them were assisted by the IRC as part of its worldwide efforts on behalf of the victims of oppression, which began in 1933.

Most of the refugees were young people who swam from four to 12 hours across Deep Bay and Mirs Bay. Others fled in boats (55 in a single boat), as well as by foot across the land border separating China and Hong Kong.

Tragically, last November Hong Kong authorities announced that "freedom swimmers" trying to enter the British Crown Colony would be returned. And in December, 223 of them were, in fact, handed over to the police of mainland China.

Whether they were luckier than 207 other swimmers who didn't make it, nobody knows. During 1974, that many bodies were washed ashore, and hundreds more refugees are believed to have died in attempts to reach Hong Kong.

A very dry hole

It's well known that the oil companies are rolling in clover, or some kind of green stuff. Yet they do have their problems.

The Amoco Production Co. of Tulsa reports that it has capped a dry hole in Alaska that was the most expensive wildcat it ever drilled.

Cost of the unproductive well was $10.8 million—$3.8 million more than the United States paid for the entire state.

Thoughts for today

FBI leaked info on Douglas to Ford

WASHINGTON — When Gerald Ford tried to impeach Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas five years ago, Ford used secret data that had been slipped to him from the files of the FBI and probably the CIA.

Ford was then the House Republican leader, a loyal party man, who sometimes played a rough game of politics.

In 1969, President Nixon wanted to clean the liberals out of the Supreme Court so he could appoint conservatives in their places. With this in mind, his friend Ford began a campaign to get impeachment hearings going against Douglas.

For ammunition, Ford went to John Mitchell, who was then the attorney general. Mitchell agreed to put someone in contact with Ford.

Not long afterward, in December 1969, Asst. Atty. Gen. Will Wilson showed up at Ford's office with derogatory data about Douglas. It was based on secret intelligence reports developed by U.S. agents in the United States and the Dominican Republic from 1956 to 1964.

One suggestion, wholly false, was that Douglas had ties with the Mafia. But the reports focused on a visit by Douglas to the inauguration of Dominican President Juan Bosch on Feb. 27, 1963.

Douglas was accompanied, the agents reported, by the head of a foundation paying Douglas $1,000 a month and by a lawyer "who had represented racketeers."

To hide the source, the information was typed on plain paper with no letterhead. Ford later borrowed entire sections from the smear sheets and used them almost verbatim in a virulent anti-Douglas speech, which he delivered on the House floor on April 15, 1970.

He fobbed off the speech as the fruit of his own investigation, with no mention of his behind-the-scenes dealings with Mitchell and Wilson.

A high Justice Department official, with direct knowledge of the case, told us that most of the damaging data against Douglas came out of FBI files. Intelligence sources added that the details from the Dominican Republic were provided by the CIA.

We reached Wilson, who slipped the typed sheets to the President-to-be, in Austin, Tex. He told us that the Douglas material had been prepared from "general intelligence files," which he used to keep in the criminal division of the Justice Department.

When we pressed him, he acknowledged that the material "probably" came from the FBI, with portions "possibly" contributed by the CIA.

Footnote: Last month, Time magazine reported that Douglas had been a "target of CIA surveillance" in the 1960s "after he visited the Dominican Republic." Spokesmen for both the FBI and CIA refused any comment. The President has said he didn't know where Wilson got the material.

SEX SNOOPS: For years, we have been reporting on the snooping practices of the FBI, CIA, Secret Service and other government agencies. We have written dozens of columns laying out the facts that are now belatedly making front-page headlines.

As evidence that government gumshoes were abusing their investigative powers, our sources provided us with secret FBI files, CIA reports and Secret Service records on prominent Americans. Among them were members of Congress, black leaders, newspapermen, movie stars and football heroes.

We have noticed that the government agents spend a great deal of time observing and reporting on the sexual adventures of a wide variety of noncriminal Americans. From the quantity and detail of information, we suspect there was as much voyeurism as sleuthing in the investigations.

Here are a few examples of what we mean:

—The Watergate wiretap transcripts, still sealed by the courts, are full of sex talk. What the White House wanted to know about the Democrats, apparently, was their sex secrets. The Watergate bugged the only telephone that didn't go through the Democratic headquarters switchboard. The Democrats used this phone, therefore, to make their most intimate calls.

—One FBI report on a prominent black leader contained nothing but titillating tidbits about his sex life. It told, for example, about an incident with a woman in a New York City hotel. "(He) threatened to leap from the 13th floor window of the hotel," the FBI reported solemnly, "if this woman would not say she loved him."

—An FBI report on a football star states he "has been observed intoxicated on several occasions and also reportedly had an affair with an airline stewardess who became pregnant as a result of this association."

—In the file of a religious leader, the FBI has included the allegation that "he had illicit relations with an underage girl."

—A well-known writer, according to the FBI, "was evicted by the landlord for having homosexual parties."

—A famous movie star has this report in his FBI file: "The informant states that from personal knowledge he knew that (the actor) was a homosexual."

Yet the sex lives of celebrities, quite obviously, should be none of the government's business.

Barbs

Considering the complaining going on in the shop, the boss says he's not running a factory—he's running a whinery.

The difference between dining out and eating out is about $5.75 per person.

The end of the week is the beginning of the weakend.

Never drink on an empty wallet—those bar tabs are murder.

Any more, it seems that the only serious offense it to get caught committing a no-no.

We're all for progress but a Halloween witch riding a vacuum just doesn't strike the right note.

When asked to give till it hurts, people develop a very low threshold of pain.

Don't put off till next week what the boss might find in your desk before you leave for the weekend.

All the pull in the world won't help if you don't have a little push of your own.

The trick this year is to get the price of the treats for the kids.

Why does flu among employes virtually disappear on pay day?

Just in jest

It has been asserted that high school graduates will forget 80 per cent of what they learn in school unless they put it to practical use. So what? Since most of those graduates earned their diplomas by dint of signing up for such snap courses as "The Art of Chocolate Dipping" and "Tea Leaf Reading," what's the difference if they don't remember?

After all, high school students have more important things to worry about than trying to retain an education. Like the high school students in Apple Valley, for instance. They are so busy defending their teacher, who posed in the nude for Playgirl Magazine, they have little time left to devote to their studies. And anyway, I am daily becoming more firmly convinced that a lot of education can be a dangerous thing.

Frankly, I shudder to think of what is going to happen to the University Club of Claremont now that women have been officially barred from membership in that erudite organization.

Scientific truths can sometimes be stranger than science fiction. Take the recent theory advanced by a scientific research team as a typical example. With the excessive traffic on our highways and with a never ending stream of cars constantly swishing by each other, driving on the left side of the road, these scientists assert, can cause a counter-clockwise turbulence which could result in tornadoes. — So what, one wonders, is happening in England where motorists insist on driving on the left hand side of the road? Do they get a clockwise turbulence there? And if so, does that just unwind the tornadoes instead of winding them up? Who knows? But one thing seems perfectly clear. Before they're through our scientists will have successfully pinned all the ills the world is heir to on the automobile.

Los Angeles artist's work on display at library

Drawings, paintings and mixed media collages by Los Angeles artist Alonzo Davis will be on display at the Pomona Public Library during National Black History Week today through Saturday.

An expanded collection of his works, including a group of masks, will continue on display at the library through March 28.

Davis, both artist and teacher, is co-owner and director of the Brockman Gallery in Los Angeles, which promotes and features minority artists. He has taught art courses at a number of Los Angeles high schools and has taught Afro-American art history at Pasadena City College and Mt. San Antonio College.

A graduate of Pepperdine College and the Otis Art Institute, Davis holds the B.A., B.F.A. and M.F.A. degrees. His work has been widely exhibited, including showings at Expo '74, the county Museum of Art, the Indio Museum in Harlem, N.Y., and the University of Oregon. He has designed and developed street murals, some of which are at the Ladera Park in Los Angeles, and a free standing totem at Rogers Park and Recreational Center, Inglewood.

Johnny moves to head of the class

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — Johnny Miller, a little upset at himself for a third round 72, stormed back with a six-under-par 66 Saturday to reclaim the lead by three shots over boyhood friend Jerry Heard with one round left to play in the $160,000 Bob Hope Desert Classic.

Miller, winner of 10 events in the last 14 months, started the fourth round of this 90-hole event, longest on the PGA tour, a shot behind non-winner Don Bies, but lost little time taking charge.

Playing at Bermuda Dunes on a summer-like day and with most of a 36,500 crowd following in his wake and in Arnold Palmer's, Miller made the turn in two-under 34 and picked up four birdies coming back for his 66 and a four-round total of 17-under-par 271.

Miller said he was happy with a three-stroke lead but cautioned that beating Heard, with whom he started cut in golf when both were 11-years-old, is no cinch.

"I have all the respect in the world for Jerry's game," said the 27-year-old Miller. "One thing he won't do is choke down the stretch. He'll be coming at me all the way, and I'll have to play my best. Still, spotting me three strokes with 18 holes to go is a pretty big advantage no matter who is doing the chasing."

Heard, whose respect for Miller is second to none, shot his third 68 of the tournament while playing at tougher La Quinta and in relative obscurity for a 72-hole score of 14-under-par 274.

John Mahaffey, another one of the "young lions" taking charge of the tour these days, shot a three-under 69 at Bermuda and was all alone at 13-under 275 and very much in the running. It will be recalled, though, that in the final round of the Tucson Open last month Mahaffey shot a five-under 67 but lost ground because Miller blitzed the Tucson National Course with a 61.

"I'm going home tonight (Saturday) and dream about nothing but 59s," quipped Mahaffey. "If I can get one of those unconscious putting rounds like I do two or three times a year, I'll have a shot at it."

Heard also is dreaming about a hot round Sunday.

"If I can shoot 65 or 66, I might have a chance," he said, "but the way Johnny is playing, I don't know if anyone can beat him."

Bies, who hasn't won a title in eight years on the tour, shot an even par 72 at Tamarisk to tie with Miller Barber, Tom Shaw and Bob Murphy at 12-under 276, five shots off the lead, and a shot ahead of Billy Casper.

Murphy shot a 68 at Tamarisk, Shaw had a 71 at Tamarisk, Barber had a 70 at Bermuda Dunes and Casper, playing his best golf this year, had a 68 at Bermuda.

Palmer, who started the fourth round at five under and seven shots off the lead, never had a chance. He was paired with Bob Hope, Jackie Gleason and Flip Wilson in the Celebrity Foursome, and shot an even par 72 that put him far back at 283.

Palmer has won the Hope title five times in the 15 previous years the tournament has been held but has had putting problems this year, which account for his erratic play.

Defending champion Hubert Greene shot a fourth round 71 and was two shots farther back at 285, while Gary Grch, winner of the rain-delayed Hawaiian Open last Monday, checked in with a 72 and was at 284.

Miller started his round Saturday with a 14-foot birdie put and after taking his only bogey on the 6th, he made an eight-footer on the eighth and a 15-footer on the 9th to make the turn in 34. Coming back, he made a three-footer on the 11th, a two-footer on the 14th, another two-footer on the 15th and a three-footer on the 18th for a 32.

"I don't think I've ever spent as much time thinking about a round as I did Saturday morning," Miller said. "Of course, I wasn't happy with that 72 Friday and I was determined to do better."

Heard's 68 included six birdies and two bogeys, while Mahaffey had four birdies and one bogey for his 69.

The cut for the final round was set at two-over-par 290 and 72 players from the starting field of 128 survived.

Among those who didn't make it were Lee Elder, Forrest Fezler, Gay Brewer, Chi Chi Rodriguez, Steve Melnyk and Jim Wiechers.

Stumbling Broncs win in a walk

By CRAIG TRAVIS
P-B Correspondent

WHITTIER — Cal Poly looked like anything but poetry in motion here at Wardman Gym Saturday night.

Despite leading all the way, the Broncos (11-6) ran aimlessly up and down the court for 30 minutes before changing their style. The result was a 30-11 scoring advantage en route to an easy 72-47 victory over the struggling Whittier Poets.

Cal Poly, from the opening tipoff, ran its way to a 34-16 halftime lead and continued to dazzle its smaller Poet opponents at the outset of the second half when the offense suddenly went cold.

Trailing 38-16 with 19:46 left in the final half, Whittier went on a scoring binge and outscored the Pomonans 20-4 to trail by six points with 10:05 remaining (42-36).

Poly coach Don Hogan called time out. When play resumed the Broncs changed from their run-and-gun offense to a spread (passing) attack. The alteration halted Whittier's momentum and the Broncos went on to enjoy a 19-point scoring advantage over the final 10 minutes of play.

"We were running up and down the court but we weren't in control of the game," said Bronco coach Don Hogan, after the win. "And they (Whittier) were starting to contend with our running game. We had to stop their momentum so we went to our spread offense."

The plan paid off as forward Paul Newton and guards Dick Gross and Joe Sills hit long range buckets to outscore the hosts 9-4 in three minutes.

Poly spent most of the final five minutes at the charity stripe sinking 11-of-15 free throws to ice its 11th game in 17 outings and 11th in the past 13 games.

Sills continued to pace the offense with 23 points, eight-of-18 from the floor and seven-of-nine from the foul line. Poly's leading scorer at 16.6 points per game also chipped in seven assists.

Newton didn't score as well as usual, just 13 points, but controlled the boards by hauling down 19 caroms. Gross was the only other Bronco in doublefigures with 10 markers.

Poly's depth had an effect on the outcome as 10 players hit the scoring column subs Bill Bunker, five points and eight rebounds, Levi Williams and David Kennedy (four points each) and Bill Cantwell and Malcolm Kennedy (two each) adding field goals.

The Broncos journey to Fresno St. Tuesday.

TWO-FISTED BACKHAND

Chris Evert follows through with her famous two-fisted backhand in 7-5, 6-2 victory over Virginia Wade Saturday in the Virginia Slims semifinals at Richfield, Ohio. She faces Margaret Court today.

In Virginia Slims finale

Evert, Court in showdown

RICHFIELD, Ohio (UPI) — Chris Evert outlasted Virginia Wade, 7-5, 6-2, Saturday to set up a "dream match" final in the $75,000 Virginia Slims Tennis tournament Sunday with Margaret Court, who earlier beat Olga Morozova, 7-6, 6-4.

Miss Wade, of Great Britian, attacked from the start and stayed up with Miss Evert until the ninth game of the first set, when Chris broke her serve.

After Miss Wade promptly broke back, Miss Evert broke again and held service to win.

"I could kind of tell the first game of the second set she was a little annoyed with herself," Chris said. "When you come that close to winning a set and lose, it takes the wind out of your sails."

Miss Wade held service the first two games of the second set and then Chris swept the final four.

Miss Evert teammed with Martina Navratilova to defeat Mrs. Court and Mrs. Morozova, 6-2, 2-6, 6-2, in doubles play to qualify for today's final against Francoise Durr and Betty Stove.

The attendance was announced at 5,197, bringing the total for the first four days to between 11,000 and 12,000.

The luncheon is scheduled at Pomona Elks Lodge 789. It is the fifth in the series, arranged throughout the area by Angels sales and marketing director Tom Seeberg.

Final stop on the tour is the Long Beach Rotary Club on Feb. 19.

Bruins supreme in the Pacific-8

UCLA outlasts Oregon, 107-103

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI) — Dave Myers scored a career high 39 points and UCLA shot a sizzling 63 per cent from the floor Saturday night as the No. 2 Bruins dumped No. 9 Oregon 107-103 in a Pacific-8 Conference game.

Myers had 22 points in the first half, but the worst was yet to come for the Ducks as the Bruins hit 23 of 31 second half shots for an incredible 74 per cent. Myers had 14 of 18 field goals and was 11 of 11 at the free throw line.

UCLA maintained a lead throughout most of the game, but Oregon mounted spurts to take the lead in the first half 36-35, but the Bruins quickly erased that and took a 47-42 halftime lead.

In the second half UCLA opened up a nine-point lead 59-50 with 16:06 to go, but Oregon pulled within two with 10:21 remaining 69-67.

Myers hit a 15-foot jump shot and Richard Washington hit a bucket underneath to put the Bruins back out by six points. Oregon came within four points with about six minutes to go, and again withe 1:48 remaining, but Pete Trgovich hit four straight free throws to put UCLA on top for good.

Ralph Drollinger addded 18 for UCLA while Trgovich had 14. For Oregon, Ron Lee and Stu Jackson had 27 points each, while Greg Ballard had 18 points.

UCLA leads the Pac-8 with a 6-1 record while Oregon fell to 3-4.

Beavers bounce Trojans, 78-75

CORVALLIS, Ore. (UPI) — Lonnie Shelton poured in 27 points Saturday night as Oregon State came from behind to upset No. 5 Southern California 78-75 in a Pacific-8 Conference game.

The No. 14 Beavers improved their record to 5-2 and grabbed second place in the Pac-8 while USC slipped to 4-3.

Oregon State, behind by 10 points after the first seven minutes of the second half, caught USC 64-64 on a Shelton layin with 8:21 left. The teams traded the lead until Trojan Clint Chapman jumped in a field goal with 1:03 remaining to make it 74-74.

OSU's Don Smith hit a layin to put the Beavers in front 76-74, then Gus Williams made a free throw for USC, before OSU's George Tucker hit two free throws on a Williams foul with seven seconds to go to cement the win for Oregon State.

Chapman led all scorers with 28 points while Williams added 21. Don Smith and Tucker each added 10 points for Oregon State.

Ashe, Okker outlast foes in world championships

BOLOGNA, Italy (UPI) — American Arthur Ashe and Tom Okker of the Netherlands advanced to the quarterfinals of the $60,000 Bologna World Championship Tennis Tournament Saturday, but both had to play three full sets against unseeded challengers to get there.

The top-seeded Ashe, of Miami, defeated Hans-Jurgen Pohmann of West Germany, 6-4, 3-6, 6-. Okker, the third seed, beat Patrice Dominquez, an Algerian-born Parisian, 6-4, 5-7, 7-6.

In Saturday night's matches, second-seeded Biorn of Sweden met Italy's Vincenzo Franchitti, who scored a first round victory over him last year, and Nikki Pilic of Yugoslavia was paired against Dick Dell of Bethesda, Md.

The other four contests to complete the quarterfinals will be decided Sunday.

Ashe complained to the organizers during the second set that strips of advertising on a white background at the side of the court kept him from seeing the ball properly.

After winning the first set, Ashe, 31, dropped the first three games of the second set and never caught up. He regained his touch in the third set, allowing his 27-year-old opponent only one game.

Okker had an even tougher fight in a match that lasted one hour and 53 minutes. In the crucial third set, Okker was leading 4-3 when the Frenchman took advantage of his apparent nervousness to take three straight games.

With each player keeping his serve after that, it took a tie break to settle the match.

Shoe rides longshot to 633rd career stakes victory at Anita

ARCADIA, Calif. (UPI) — Veteran riding champion Bill Shoemaker drove longshot Trojan Bronze to a neck victory Saturday in the 23rd running of the $56,050 San Marcos Handicap at Santa Anita.

For Shoemaker, it was his third consecutive victory program and boosted his victory total to 6,778 for his career. It was his 633rd stakes triumph.

Overlooked in the betting, Trojan Bronze battled for the lead all the way and then outfought Indefatigable at the wire for the narrow win. El Botija finished third and the heavily-favored Barclay Joy was fourth in the field of 11.

In scoring the long shot triumph, Trojan Bronze covered the 1¼ miles in 1:59 4-5, 1-5 of a second slower than the track record set by Bold Bidder in 1966.

For the victory, Trojan Bronze rewarded backers in the crowd of 34,000 with $39.20, $15.40, and $7.80. Indefatigable paid $11.00 and $6.80 and El Botija returned $6.20.

It was the second victory at the meeting for Trojan Bronze, who raced only once in 1974 after winning three stakes events as a juvenile in Canada.

Trojan Bronze is a 4-year-old son of Tobin Bronze and was bred in Kentucky. Owner Adrian B. Rocks purchased him for $7,500 in 1972.

Barclay Joy, undefeated in two U.S. starts, trailed the field and moved up on the inside but failed to find sufficient racing room.

The victory was worth $33,550 to Trojan Bronze, who had been entered in Sunday's $100,000 Charles H. Strub stakes before his trainers elected to run him in the San Marcos instead.

The Strub Stakes for 4-yearolds is the first $100,000 race of 1975 and with the declaration of Trojan Bronze will have a field of nine. Included in the field are Lightning Mandate, Stardust Mel, Rube The Great, and First Back.

Baylor finds he loves basketball

NEW YORK (UPI) — Elgin Baylor never knew how much he loved basketball until he retired as a player.

"Basketball is something I've been involved in all my life," said Baylor, the assistant coach of the expansion New Orleans Jazz. "It's something you never seem to get away from."

He wants to be a head coach one day but feels he isn't ready to take on the responsibility at this time.

"I've had many offers from both leagues," said Baylor, "but I believe this job gives me more credibility and experience. It certainly helps."

Baylor, voted to the National Basketball Association's 25 year all-time team, is in charge of coaching New Orleans forwards.

"I'm trying to teach them defensive positioning and how to rebound," said Baylor, who was a fine rebounder and defensive player despite being a relatively short 6-foot-5. "I'm trying to teach them when to go to the boards."

Many assistant coaches travel across the country scouting outstanding college prospects who become eligible for the pro draft at the end of the season. Baylor doesn't. He remains with the team and scouts opponents on film.

"I go over the other teams' personnel on films with our forwards," said Baylor, "pointing out what things they should be aware of."

Baylor, who played under Jazz Coach Bill Van Breda Kolif with the Los Angeles Lakers, said they often discuss what offensive patterns the Jazz should use.

"We're working with the guys trying to teach them patterns," he said. "We try to teach them a team concept so we'll be able to develop some kind of continuity. It's important to get everyone involved in the team so they'll know what options to expect when they have the ball."

According to Baylor, a team that plays smart, knowledgeable basketball has a chance to beat teams with more talent.

"Take a team like the Knicks. They'll make the playoffs year after year because they play smart, together basketball," he said. "They run all kinds of set plays which lead to high percentage shots. Even when they're not running plays there's constant movement without the ball. They set picks away from the ball and work for perimeter shots."

Baylor believes a coach requires certain characteristics and qualities to be successful.

"It's so important from a psychological approach to earn the respect of the players," said Baylor. "If the guys respect the coach they're willing to listen to him, to play for him."

Working with an expansion team has been useful learning experinece for him.

"It's been quite a challange," he said. "It's important to be patient and understanding with an expansion team. We have a lot of young players who haven't played a lot. Many of them were the eighth or ninth players on other teams before they came here and never really had the opportunity to find out where they fit in best.

"Other teams have an advantage. Expansion teams don't get calls from the officials and often have a rough schedule. In fact, we've played 19 of 21 games on the road at one stretch."

Baylor feels every team must have a floor leader, someone who complements his teammates.

"A team has to have a take charge guy who'll call plays and sacrifice his own individual offense," said Baylor. "Pete Maravich has put in a tremendous effort trying to fill this void for us."

Baylor says the game's structure hasn't changed too drastically since he first entered the league.

"There's a trend to use smaller, quicker forwards," said Baylor. "Every team has one big rebounding forward and a smaller forward who can handle the ball like a (John) Havlicek or (Bill) Bradley.

"There are more outstanding players in the league. Overall the talent is better. The teams have more depth. There are seven or eight outstanding players on each team compared to two or three when I entered the league. I don't know if they play any smarter, but they certainly have more talent."

Hoosiers coast to 25th win in a row

IOWA CITY, Iowa (UPI) — No. 1-ranked Indiana, behind 23 points from junior Scott May, coasted past a cold-shooting Iowa team 79-56 Saturday night for its 25th straight victory and 11 th straight in Big Ten play.

The Hoosiers did not play their best game of the year, but were helped along by the Hawkeyes' 28 per cent field goal accuracy. Iowa stayed within eight to 10 points of the Hoosiers until five minutes were gone in the second half. The Hoosiers then outscored Iowa 12-4 in a four-minute period to open up a 55-39 lead and clinch their 22nd win this season.

Hoosier guard Quinn Buckner had 15 points and forward Steve Green had 14. Iowa, now 7-12 overall and 4-7 in the Big Ten, had two players in double figures. Reserve center Bruce King scored 14 points and hauled down 21 rebounds while guard Larry Moore added 11.

The Hoosiers shot 45.8 per cent in front of a capacity crowd of 13,200.

However, Iowa outrebounded Indiana 55-49.

AGREES TO TERMS — Randy Stein, No. 1 draft choice of the Baltimore Orioles in 1971, agreed to contract terms with his high school sweetheart Patty Delk Saturday night at the Pilgrim Congregational Church in Pomona. The former Ganesha High Pitcher reports to the Orioles' spring training camp in Miami this week.

Stones incensed at officials; thought he'd set new mark

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Dwight Stones was incensed and you could hardly blame him.

"I can't believe it. I can't believe it," the 6-foot-5 Glendale, Calif., product muttered. "I never felt so good in my life and I get robbed. This is ridiculous. Something like this really distresses me. I've known these officials ever since I was a young kid and then they let this happen."

Stones thought he set a world indoor best of 7-5½ in the high jump at the Los Angeles Times Games at the Forum Friday night but it turned out to be only 7-5¼.

AAU officials remeasured Stones' height and came up a quarter of an inch short.

"They told me it was 7-5½ before I jumped," said the world's No. 1 high jumper in 1973 and 1974. "On the jump, I could have cleared 7-7."

Stones, 21, the world outdoor record holder at 7-6½, failed three times at 7-7 after equalling his own world indoor best. He soared 7-5¼ at the Sunkist Invitational at the Los Angeles Sports Arena Jan. 18.

"I hit the bar in the Sunkist meet," said the Long Beach State athlete. "This was a much better jump."

Stones and his Pacific Coast Club coach, Tom Jennings, argued vociferously with the officials but they lost. Jennings said more than a quarter of an inch was at stake.

"Dwight obviously was upset emotionally and that blew his concentration," the PCC coach noted. "He wanted to go 7-7 tonight, and he didn't have any chance after the measurement thing. That's why he was so disgusted.

"The officials just carelessly measured it the first time and then accurately the second time. You tend to get careless officiating with volunteers. What do they say? You get what you pay for?"

Most of the crowd of 16,400 was still in its seats when Stones failed for the third time to clear 7-7. That came at 11:50 p.m. PST, four hours and 20 minutes after the Times meet got underway.

Stones was supposed to catch a plane at 1 a.m. for Louisville to compete in the Mason-Dixon Games tonight.

"I'll be a basket case now," he admitted. "Luckily, I won't be jumping against any studs, though."

Tanzania's Filbert Bayi beat New Zealander John Walker in the mile in 3:59.6, grabbing the lead from former Oregon star Steve Prefontaine during the sixth lap of the 11-lap race and then holding on the rest of the way.

Walker, who chased Bayi to a world 1,500-meter record 12 months ago at Christchurch, N.Z., was second in 3:59.9.

Maryland routs Duke, 104-80

DURHAM, N.C. (UPI) — Fourth-ranked Maryland, led by the outside shooting of John Lucas and Brad Davis and the inside help of Steve Sheppard, routed Duke 104-80 Saturday in an Atlantic Coast Conference game.

Maryland, now 17-3 for the season and 7-2 in the ACC, and Duke were tied four times during the opening minutes but with 12:04 remaining in the first half the Terrapins took the lead for good at 20-19.

Lucas, top scorer in the game with 25, tallied 14 points in the first half. Sheppard had 19 and Davis 18. Kevin Billerman led Duke with 16.

Duke, 11-8 for the season and 7-2 in the ACC, trailed 53-40 at the half and proved no match against the Terrapins in the second half. The closest Duke got was 10 points at 69-59 with 11:58 remaining.

Kentucky beats Georgia

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI) — Fifth-ranked Kentucky, sparked by Kevin Grevey's early action and 20 points, defeated Georgia 75-61 Saturday night and retained a share of the Southeastern Conference lead.

The victory, Kentucky's second over the Bulldogs this season, kept the Wildcats tied with Alabama at the top of the conference with 10-1 records.

Despite early foul trouble, Georgia's Jacky Dorsey, second in the loop in scoring with a 27.5 average, led both teams with 21 points.

Mike Flynn added 15 points for Kentucky, now 17-2.

Georgia forward Billy Magarity held Grevey below his average, netting only 18 points.

Kentucky shot out to a 12-2 lead as Grevey got 10 of the first Wildcat points and was never seriously challenged after that. Kentucky led by 11 at the half and doubled it by midway in the last half.

Chaffey claimed its third victory in a row with a 15-2 rout of Mira Costa for the championship while Citrus won the consolation title with a 4-1 decision over Imperial Valley and MSAC beat College of the Desert, 10-6 for seventh place.

All three teams will be back in action this week in single games. Chaffey visits Glendale Monday and San Jacinto Tuesday. Citrus hosts Compton Tuesday and Rio Hondo Wednesday and MSAC hosts L.A. City Tuesday, San Bernardino Thursday and visits La Verne College Friday for a scrimmage.

Chaffey outslugged Mira Costa on 15 hits and got plenty of help from 12 errors by the hosts.

Jim Arkison picked up the victory for Citrus by striking out seven, walking only four and allowing seven hits. Frank Covertino and Greg Johnsion each had two hits and Covertino and John Bowman doubled.

Three home runs powered MSAC over COD. Ron Roenicke hit a solo shot in the sixth. Dan Gans hit a two-run homer in the fourth and Frank Marini clouted a solo homer in the third inning.

Cal Poly is now 6-1 in conference play and 7-2 for the season.

Irish get by in o.t., 66-65

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI) — Freshman Jeff Carpenter tossed in two free throws with 31 seconds to go and Notre Dame slipped by South Carolina, 66-65, in overtime Saturday.

Bottled up by a strict Gamecock zone defense, Adrian Dantley, the nation's No. 2 collegiate scorer for Notre Dame, was held to just 10 points on three field goals and four free throws. Al English, South Carolina forward, was the game's leading scorer with 23.

The Irish got off to a quick early lead, but the score was tied eight times in the first half and twice, with 6:04 and 5:28 to play, the Gamecocks took a two-point lead.

The second half was more of the same, with South Carolina grabbing the lead only once, but tying the score on Stew Klitenic's free throw at 58-58 at the end of regulation time.

La Verne takes SCIAC lead

La Verne College took over first place in the SCIAC Saturday night. Claremont-Mudd also was a winner while Pomona-Pitzer dropped its second in a row.

The Sagehens lost to Pt. Loma 69-51. The Stags beat L.A. Baptist, 98-86, both non conference affairs.

La Verne once again had trouble with last-place Caltech, but came out on top 76-66. Over in Eagle Rock, Redlands surprised Occidental, 65-59 in overtime.

As a result, the Leos (7-2) are in first place by a half game margin over Oxy (6-2). The two clash in a showdown Wednesday night at the Supertent.

The Leos led at the half by a point, 32-31 and gradually pulled away in the second half as Bill Rockwood hit on six straight field goal attempts after missing his first shot. He was seven for nine for the game. Center Dan Carroll led the Leos with 15 points and 12 rebounds.

In San Diego, Pt. Loma rolled over Pomona-Pitzer 69-51. The Sagehens (6-11) made only 21 of 61 field goal attempts while the Crusaders (10-13) made 27 of 64 and 15 of 16 free throws. The 'Hens resume conference action

Smith leads women golf, fires 70

NAPLES, Fla. (UPI) — Marilynn Smith fired a two-under-par 70 Saturday to join first-round leaders Donna Caponi Young and Debbie Austin in a three-way tie for the lead after the second round of the $40,000 Naples-Lely LPGA Classic.

The three women were grouped at four-under 140 and held a two-stroke lead over the rest of the field. Young and Austin each shot a one-under-par 71 over the 6,100-yard Lely Country Club course.

Tied at 142 were Shelly Hamlin, who shot a 72, and Mary Mills, with a 71. Three strokes back at 143 were Jane Blalock, who fired a 70; Texans Sandra Haynie and Sandra Palmer, with 72s, and Montreal's Jocelyne Bourassa, with a 73.

Defending champion Carol Mann fired a par 72 for a two-round total of 146.

Young, who captured the first event of the 1975 LPGA tour by winning the Burdine's Invitational last week, had two birdies but bogeyed the 15th hole Saturday. Austin had birdies on the eighth and 17th holes and bogeyed the 10th, when she hit her tee shot in the trap. Smith had four birdies and two bogeys in the second round.

Players with scores above 151 were eliminated Saturday, trimming the field from 97 to 60.

Sports news in brief

EAST LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — Wisconsin's sprint medley relay team, running this seldom-seen event together for the first time, set a new world indoor best of 3:23.8 Saturday night to highlight the Michigan State Relays.

The previous best indoors was a 3:24.0 by Oklahoma State in 1962 and although this event is rarely run outside either, North Carolina Central's team posted a 3:14.8 in the spring of 1972.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Sophomore Mike McFarland of Indiana University, who ran in the Indiana Relays at Bloomington Saturday afternoon, came back Saturday night to set a world record in the men's 70-yard dash with a 6.7 clocking in the 15th annual Mason-Dixon Games.

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The owners of the Baltimore Orioles have received an offer of $12 million from a local group seeking to buy the club but Board Chairman Jerold C. Hoffberger says he is still listening to bids from groups in other cities.

Hoffberger told team stockholders Friday the club was still up for sale and he hoped it would remain in Baltimore. However, Hoffberger said he would bow to the wishes of stockholders and wait for the highest possible bid.

MANILA (UPI) — The twice postponed title fight between World Boxing Association (WBA) junior lightweight champion Ben Villaflor of the Philippines and Kim Hyun-chi of South Korea has been set for March 14 here, a Filipino promoter said Saturday.

Promoter Lope Sarreal, Jr., said the title fight was postponed a second time because of a demand by Villaflor's manager, Sam Ichonose, for an additional $25,000 as a promotional fee.

HONOLULU (UPI) — Oakland A's star Reggie Jackson says he'll probably be traded and the Los Angeles Dodgers are his first choice.

In a news conference Thursday, Jackson said, "my first choice is the Los Angeles Dodgers and I think I could help them win a world championship, but if not there, then one of the New York teams where I think I could make a lot of money."

DALLAS (UPI) — Powerful Indiana swept to first place in every swimming event Saturday and host Southern Methodist edged North Carolina State on the final event, the 400-yard free relay, to claim second place honors in an invitational meet.

BOLOGNA, Italy (UPI) — Bjorn Borg of Sweden easily repelled a bid by Italy's unseeded Vincenzo Franchitti to upend him, 6-2, 6-3, for the second time and advanced Saturday night to the quarterfinals of the 60,000 dollar Bologna World Championship Tennis tournament.

Cheek leaves Oregon State

CORVALLIS, ORE. (UPI) — Jerry Cheek, offensive coordinator for Oregon State the past two seasons, has announced his resignation from the football coaching staff.

Cheek came to OSU from Washington where he was on the husky staff as offensive coordinator during the years Sonny Sixkiller was quarterback. He formerly coached at Pomona Catholic.

No replacement was announced, but sources close to the athletic department said Ken Blue, who spent the past season at Kansas, was in line for the job. Blue spent his two prior years as an assistant coach for the St. Louis Cardinals.

Area golfers join drive to boost cancer fund

By PHIL ROCHE
P-B Staff Writer

J. C. SNEAD

GOLFERS WILL join the fight against cancer and have a fun time doing it Thursday at Brookside Golf Court in Pasadena.

On that date, the first annual Tournament of Fun benefitting the American Cancer Society's Northeast Los Angeles County Unit will feature a day of golf followed by dinner and dancing at a Valentine Party in the clubhouse.

"We are planning a day of really good golf and fun in a worthwhile cause," said tournament chairman Milton Walker of Pasadena.

Also actively working toward the success of this "first" for the Unit are co-chairman Mrs. Sherrie Margid of Covina and committee chairman O. K. Earl, club relations; Ray Burkhart, finances; Pete Schwinn, M.D., entries; Don Scroeder, tournament play; and Mrs. Kay Carlson of Via Verde, dinner chasirman.

Television star James Farentino will be on hand with his actress wife, Michele Lee, as will "Hollywood Hackers" Frank Aletter, Eddie Dion, Robert Carson, Eddie Firestone, Charles Lane, John Larch, Chuck Stuart and Cliff Norton. Radio station KMPC's director of sports, Fred Hessler and assistant news director Bob Steinbrinck are among celebrity participants.

The tournament is open to all golfers, with the $50 tax deductible entry fee donation including numerous tee and door prizes and the evening's Valentine Party. Limited reservations are available for the evening's activities only at $35 for two.

Further information from the American Cancer Society at (213) 795-7774.

MANY OF THE FINEST Southland high school golfers will compete in the season's first tournament Wednesday when Ron Gurney holds his Nogales Open event at Corona National Golf Course.

It's an 8 a.m. shotgun event. Teams entered are Barstow, Bellflower, Burbank, Costa Mesa, Covina, Eisenhower, Los Altos, Mission Viejo, Nogales, Quartz Hill, San Clemente, Schurr, South Hills, Upland, Warren and Wilson of La Puente.

Gurney will hold this event for the seventh straight year, and judging from the team entries, the golf should be outstanding. Some lanky, long-hitting kid will probably shoot a 69 or so to win it.

BUD JOHNSTON, the new professional at Palm Lake Golf Course, has impressive credentials. He's been a member of the PGA since 1953 and a holder of a Class A card since 1958.

He is interested these days in completeing his stock of merchandise at Palm Lake, will be available for lessons, and is an expert at club fitting. Bud lives in La Verne.

IT WAS A TOUGH WEEK at the Bing Crosby for Eddie Pearce. During his round at Cypress Point, while hitting a three-wood at the par 3—16th, the club head came off and flew into the ocean.

Then, hitting a driver on the 17th, the insert came out of the club face. Prior to leaving Carmel for the Hawaiian Open, Eddie had all his clubs stolen from the trunk of his car.

When he arrived at the Islands, he borrowed a driver from Jack Nicklaus, a putter from Lee Trevino, a wedge from John Mahaffey and filled his bag with clubs from the rest of his colleagues and proceeded to shoot a first day 67 in the Hawaiian Open.

Tennis popularity soars in '70s

NEW YORK (UPI) — Like Muhammad Ali, Jimmy Connors is an American sports superstar who is instantly recognizable abroad.

Jimmy Connors, in fact, can walk pretty much the same side of the street as such household names as Henry Aaron, Johnny Miller, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, Bobby Orr, Franco Harris and the host of other superstars who ply their trade almost exclusively in the United States.

That wasn't true 10 years ago when a tennis champion earned his keep by accepting "under the table" payments and who rarely got a mention in the national press unless he happened to win at Forest Hills or Wimbledon.

There was little or no national exposure on television.

Things are different today, although it is true the tennis champion still does not enjoy the same public stature as the baseball and football superstar.

Tennis is the boom sport of the 1970s and parents now encourage their children to play the game where once they guided their sons in the direction of baseball, basketball and football.

It all dates back to 1968 when the game was thrown open to the pros.

With the arrival of open tennis came the promoters and big sponsorship and today the globe-trotting stars play for nearly $9 million in prize money worldwide. Last year the 22-year-old Connors won $281,309, while his then fiancee, Chris Evert, set a women's record of $261,460. Both considerably swelled their bank balances with endorsements.

As the pro game became more popular, so interest mounted and a Nielsen survey shows there are now nearly 34 million persons in the United States with at least a casual interest in playing the game, an increase of 68 per cent on 1973. However, of this number, only about 12 million are really serious and frequent players.

Nearly as many women enjoy the game as do the men and herein lies the popularity of the sport. Nielsen figures show that 12,742,000 men played sometime last summer while the total of women players was 10,589,000.

Jimmy Connors' mother, Gloria, said her son had grasped the fundamentals of the game by the age of seven, so it comes as no surprise to learn there are 2,047,000 registered players under the age of 11, while there are 8,571,000 in the age bracket between 12 and 17.

The United States Lawn Tennis Association estimates there are 20,000 courts in the country and the number is growing by 1,000 per month. The bulk of these, 37,500, are located at clubs or resorts, while there are 22,000 municipal courts.

Despite tight money and raging inflation there are 14,000 private courts which cost in the region of $15,000 each to build.

The game is played during the entire 12 months, both in the sunny west and the colder east. There are now 1,400 indoor centers, mostly in the east, compared with only 250 six years ago.

Television has played a big part in boosting the game and TV Guide reports that there are more "tennis listings" nationally than any other sport.

Other reasons most commonly offered are: interest in physical fitness; increased leisure time; the opportunity to play around the clock; comparatively inexpensive equipment and, for busy people, the fact that a good workout in tennis can be achieved in an hour compared to three to four hours—and more—for a round of golf on a crowded course.

Alfred S. Alschuler Jr., an architect and partner in Tennis Planning Consultants of Chicago and Houston, has come up with some staggering figures which show why tennis has become a billion dollar industry.

Alschuler's research shows $160 million was spent in 1974 on club membership and court time fees; $380 million on court construction and related real estate costs; $30 million on camps and clinics; $20 million on court equipment and practice and teaching aids, and more than $100 million on miscellaneous expenditures.

A spokesman for the National Sporting Goods Association provided other interesting figures: $93 million on tennis balls; $107 million on racquets; $46 million on clothing and $86 million on shoes. The tennis shoes, he noted, might be used in many cases for sports other than tennis.

The projected income for 1974, based on sales during the first six months, was $325 million. The Association anticipated a return of some $6 billion in 1974 from sales of all types of sporting equipment excluding the sale of boats and recreational vehicles.

It costs virtually nothing to play tennis in a public park, but the waiting line often is worse than that experienced by any rabbit golfer. To play at a private club costs in the region of $400 for one hour a week over six months. A good racquet will cost $60 and upwards.

The thing which attracts people into the pro game, apart from the money, is the fact the world is their stage.

Connors, who won 15 of 21 tournaments in 1974 to finish the world's No. 1, played on four continents. Chris Evert won 16 of 24 tourneys. She, too, visited four continents. Both were equally at ease in New York, London, Paris, Johannesburg and Melbourne, exotic datelines not on the baseball, basketball, hockey and football schedules.

The major arenas still are Wimbledon, Forest Hills, Dallas, Paris and Australia, but the U.S. now stages nearly eight months of competitive tennis with the WCT and IPA indoor winter tours and the U.S. LTA summer-fall outdoor circuit.

It is here, in the U.S., that the money is to be made and that is why tennis no longer is the orphan child of big-time professional sports in America.

Claremont closes in on fourth title

Claremont High can clinch at least a tie for the San Antonio League soccer championship this week.

The Wolfpack, three-time defending champions in the league and ranked No. 2 in CIF, opens up the crucial week of activities Monday afternoon against Ganesha on the Wolves' Sumner Park field in Claremont.

Then next Friday, the 'Pack could clinch at least the tie when it faces Garey . . . providing they win Monday.

In other SAL soccer action Monday afternoon, Garey hosts Pomona, Montclair entertains Chino, and Damien greets Webb School. All games are scheduled to begin at 2:30 p.m.

Usually played on Wednesday afternoons, the SAL soccer schedule was revamped this week due to the holiday Wednesday.

Claremont currently leads the league with a 9-0-1 record, allowing its opponents an average of only one-half point per contest. The Wolves, offensively, average 5.2 goals an outing.

Ganesha is presently tied for fourth place in the league standings, sporting a record of 5-3-2.

Chino is all alone in second place behind Claremont, needing two victories paired with two Claremont losses to catch the defending champs.

The Cowboys have only lost once in league competition, but have come up with three draws compared to their six victories.

Two Claremont wins this week would leave the Wolfpack at least four up in the points column.

It is exciting to watch the men rolling our Danish, feeding the huge rotary ovens, mixing bread & decorating cakes. This week they are planning for VALENTINES. Thousands of decorated cupcakes go to schools and homes for childrens' parties. Walking through the bakery you see red heart cookies, heart shaped individual cakes, and the gorgeous display of beautiful cakes—both single and double layer decorated in lavendars, pinks, reds and any color you may fancy. (P.S. Be sure you plan your Bakery Open House tours in advance; especially for groups February 17th from 10:00 A.M. 'til 2:00 P.M.)

See you there,
Betty

Investors continue buying stampede

By FRANK W. SLUSSER
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Investors continued to find stocks as the best place to put their money this week and prices rose again in a buying stampede begun in late January.

The Federal Reserve Board paved the way for this week's advance by lowering the discount rate it charges toprated corporate customers, and banks helped by lowering their interest rates because of the increased availability of money.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which climbed 37.08 points the week before, rose another 8.22 at 711.91. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index added 1.65 to 78.63. The New York Stock Exchange common stock index rose 0.89 to 41.30.

Advancing issues far outnumbered those declining, 1,265 to 585, among the 2,006 issues crossing the tape.

Volume totaled 128,365,030 shares, second only to last week's all-time record 145,689,486 shares. The turnover the same week a year ago totaled 63,555,760 shares.

The Fed helped sustain the rally, begun two weeks ago, by reducing to 6¾ per cent from 7¼ per cent the discount rate it charges member banks for loans. That was all Morgan Guaranty needed to know to lower the prime lending rate it charges top rated corporate customers to 8¾ per cent.

Other banks lowered their prime rate also and there were indications it would soon fall to the seven per cent level. At present, it ranges from 8¾ to 9¼ per cent across the nation. The prime reached a historic high of 12 per cent in July and was of concern to Wall Street for months.

As the yields on short-term money instruments declined, investors continued to flee into securities at a rate never seen before. For each of the past 11 sessions, 20 million or more shares were traded on the NYSE.

Loan demands at New York's 12 leading banks continued to decline due to the recession and this helped the market. But there was some confusion at the end of the week about the Fed's efforts to put more money in the system. The Fed acknowledged publicly during the week it had voted three times since November to ease its policies, but also reported the money supply contracted slightly in the latest statistical quarter.

Another factor in the advance was the price of stocks, many of which were at extremely low levels following the severe beating in the 1973-74 bear market. Back in December, a number of Wall Street observers, including researchers at Chemical Bank of New York, said there was considerable money waiting to be invested in the market. They all said it would be invested when the time was right. And apparently that time is now.

Since the beginning of the new year, the market had marched solidly ahead on a broad range. More recently, a pattern has emerged in which institutions with vast sums of money were buying into blue-chip and glamor stocks, after unloading some less glamorous issues.

Short covering — replacing borrowed shares sold earlier — played a part in the action of the past two weeks. There were reports of near panic among some traders to cover once they noted the force of the stampede.

Clothing salesman to commodity chief

By EDWAR CRAIG
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Working as a clothing salesman hardly qualifies anyone as president of anything, but in Lee H. Berendt's case, it helped.

It was while working as a clothing salesman that Berendt made a friendship with a customer that led him to the Commodity Exchange Inc., which he now serves as president.

The Comex hasn't the visibility of larger exchanges in the overall auction market, such as the New York Stock Exchange, but it serves as a center for the buying and selling of contracts in silver, copper and gold. Gold is a newcomer to the list, since trading in the metal has been legal only since Dec. 31.

Still in his early 30s, Berendt has been exchange president since last August, a post to which he succeeded after several years as an aide to former president Matthew S. Fox.

Berendt's association with the exchange, as it sometimes happens, came about by accident.

Already a law school graduate and pondering what to do the rest of his life, Berendt chanced to strike up a conversation in the clothes store with a customer who happened to be connected with the exchange. Impressed with Berendt's quickness of mind, the customer suggested the exchange as a possible outlet for his talents. He was hired as assistant to Fox, then president and executive director, after interviews with the board of governors.

With Fox's retirement in January, 1973, the governors chose Berendt as his successor, not without misgivings stemming from his youth and short tenure with the exchange. They gave him the title of "acting" executive director, removed the qualifying adjective four months later and then little more than a year later made him president.

Realtors told:

Many cannot afford to purchase homes

Members of the National Association of Realtors are urged to "push the Administration and Congress from the grass roots" for measures that would stimulate new home construction and existing home sales.

The proposal was made by Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez, D-Tex., who spoke at the association's mid-winter meeting held in San Antonio.

"Measures are needed that will result in the construction of a minimum of 2.6 million homes each year and lead to a lowering of interest rates," he added.

Gonzalez also called for an increase in the money supply to make money for mortgage loans more readily available; and incentives that would encourage the rehabilitation of existing homes.

Declaring that he wasn't the bearer of good news, Gonzalez said there is a reason for the hard times. "That reason is there are not many Americans who can afford to buy a house at all today."

He noted the median price for a home last year was $36,900. "If you could get a 9 per cent loan on that median home for $34,800, your buyer would have an annual income of more than $20,000 just to qualify. And only one family in five in America could afford to buy that home."

Legislation and administration action that would lower interest rates would stimulate the market appreciably, he indicated.

"Interest rates are falling now. The New York prime rate is now 9 per cent. This would normally mean that mortgage rates ought to be falling soon. That would be fine because for every percentage point that mortgage rates drop, you can chop about $14 a month off the cost of servicing a $25,000 mortgage."

In another talk, W. Philip Gramm, professor of economics at Texas A & M, predicted that if President Ford's anti-recession policy produces a deficit in excess of $30 billion, double-digit inflation rates, economic disruptions and unemployment will be assured in 1976.

"Our problems aren't economic— they're political. The government is basically run by incompetence and inefficiency," he said.

"Even without the Arab oil embargo, we would have had inflation in 1974. Inflation has occurred because of massive increases in federal expenditures and this was accelerated today with the announcement of the new federal budget."

Gramm said much of the rise in unemployment experienced the past eight months has been concentrated in the building and automobile industries.

Regarding interest rates, Gramm said these have risen because inflation has stifled the incentive to save and governmen has absorbed huge quantities of available funds to finance its growing debt.

"This money, otherwise, would have been used for mortgage loans.

"And while the tax cut will stimulate spending, the growth in the deficit will necessitate increased federul borrowing and a growth in the money supply. This could cause interest and inflation rates to rise by the end of 1975.

"Therefore, there is the danger that a large federal deficit produced by the tax cut would result in the same dilemma of inflation and unemployment in 1976," he noted.

"If we are ever to put an end to spiraling prices, shortages, high interest rates and economic stagnation, we must stop the growth of the government debt and put our fiscal and monetary house in order.

"But to accomplish this, we must either resist the siren song of more and more government spending or increase taxes to pay for such programs," he declared.

RUTH VACCARI

New realty manager is appointed

Ruth Vaccari, a sales staff member at Herbert Hawkins Realtor office in Pomona for six years, has been promoted to office manager.

She has been a member of the "Million $" sales club every year since joining the firm and also earned the title of "salesmaster" for four years. The latter represents annual sales exceeding $1.2 million.

Mrs. Vaccari has also earned many sales awards from the Pomona Valley Board of Realtors of which she is an active member.

Before joining the Hawkins organization, Mrs. Vaccari had served as general manager of St. Charles Restaurant.

The Pomona sales staff will be expanded under her direction.

Despite inflation, this is good time to buy home

Despite the spiraling inflation, this remains a good time for California residents to buy new or used homes.

So declared Richard C. Farrer of Hayward, president of the California Association of Realtors.

"People who want to sell regetting more for their homes because the dollar volume is up while those who seek to purchase a home couldn't find a better time to invest their money."

Farrer supported his "good time to buy" statement by referring to the most current multiple listing service figures compiled by various boards of Realtors.

Of the 50 boards which filed their December property listing figures, 28 showed an increase in dollar volume over December, 1973.

"Fifteen of these 28 realized a significant increase in the corresponding periods, and despite what some economists and observers are saying about downward trend in housing nationally, I feel these latest statistics belie their remarks—at least their application to the used home market," he said.

Showing a 61 per cent gain was the Ontario-Upland-Chino Board of Realtors which reported $2,858,350 for December, 1973, and $4,407,850 for December, 1974.

A decrease for the same two periods was reported, however, by the Pomona Valley Board of Realtors. It reported sales of $1,910,135 for December, 1974, and $2,111,044, for December, 1973.

Noting an overall 56 per cent rise in dollar volume from reporting boards during the two December periods, Farrer said this is another barometer to indicate the crisis in consumer confidence is decreasing and that brighter days are ahead for the housing industry.

"The time to buy and sell new and used homes is now. It's as good a time to invest as ever. Existing property sales are up now for both buyer and seller."

Farrer said that while the real estate industry outlook in California is optimistic, he realized situations elsewhere in the nation are not so bright.

"For example, national figures show that sales volume for single family homes was off 13.7 per cent in November in the northeast.

Conference for Realtors set Feb. 18

The 25th annual spring sales conference, co-sponsored by the California Association of Realtors and the Pomona Valley Board of Realtors, will be held Feb. 18 at the Huntington Sheraton Hotel in Pasadena.

The conference theme is "You Gotta Work the Territory" and is designed to show Realtors and associates how to maximize the many ways available to them for "prospecting" or contacting new buyers or sellers in their own areas, said Walter Arnold, Pomona board president.

The featured speaker will be Dr. Cody Sweet, a writer on beauty and behavior, a writer will discuss "Body Language: Selling's Forgotten Skill."

She believes that skill in body language is as crucial to good communication as the written or spoken language.

A new book published by the state association which bears the conference title will be distributed to those attending. It presents eight prospecting techniques which were written by successful real estate practitioners.

A film, also entitled "You Gotta Work the Territory" will be shown. It shows the important elements of prospecting and relates the need for specialization.

An examination at the close of the program will entitle those with passing grades to one unit of credit toward their Graduate Realtors Insititute certificate.

Registration is $10 with an option luncheon at $4.25 per person, plus $1 extra for those wanting to take the exam.

Those wanting to attend may contact the Pomona Valley Board of Realtors, 665 N. Garey Ave., Pomona, 91767, or phone 623-1607.

Fewer, more expensive homes to alter American lifestyles

A challenge for the homebuilding industry to place the welfare of the nation ahead of the health of the industry was issued by Raymond L. Watson, president of Southern California's Irvine Co. Speaking at the National Association of Home Builders convention in Dallas, Tex., Watson said the building industry's problem will quickly dissolve themselves once the country's problems have been resolved.

He discounted the concept that a reduction in interest rates and an increase in the supply of mortgage money alone will bring housing starts back to the 1972 level.

"Inflationary costs, governmental regulations flowing from environmental concerns, the prospect of added regulations stemming from the energy crisis and the state of the economy will all act to hold down the homebuilding industry," he said.

"These factors will mean fewer and more expensive houses and will bring about a change in the character of American housing, altering the lifestyle of Americas."

The almost unique luxury that the American middle class has had of having a ranch-style house on a spacious lot at an affordable price will become a thing of the past. It will still be desired but out of financial reach. And in its place will be attached, clustered housing, said Watson.

"The nation is in difficult economic times and a shakeout of housing developers will result. But out of this will come better products, a better environment, better managed companies and a stronger industry."

He emphasized the current year will test the value of management within a company as seldom before.

"In the good old days when the industry was selling 2.4 million units per year, the three words for success in the homebuilding industry were location, location and location."

"But now with starts numbering from one million to 1.5 million units during 1975, the three words will be changed to location, product and management," he stated.

The value of management will grow in importance as developers are put to the test in getting approvals, working within the constraints of restrictions imposed through approval processes, obtaining suitable financing and working with high costs of labor and materials, said Watson.

Cobbler is barometer of times

WATERTOWN, Minn. (UPI) — Stooped over a bench, hard at work in a ramshackle shop in this rustic southern Minnesota community, is a little white-haired man who looks like someone out of a fairy tale.

In fact, fairy tale aficionados probably recall the story of the poor, but good-hearted, old cobbler who had no money for leather until some elves returned a kindness and made shoes for him in the secrecy of the night to change his fortunes.

Reinhardt Hoffman, the 82-year-olr proprietor of Hoffman's Harness and Shoe Repair Shop, could be that old cobbler.

Born in a village in central Russia in 1892, Hoffman came to America in 1913 and has quietly repaired shoes ever since.

The shoe repairman can almost be considered a barometer of the state of the nation, especially now when tight budgets are forcing persons to sacrifice things like that new pair of shoes and make do with the old ones.

"Business picked up three-four years ago when shoes started going high," Hoffman recalls, "but more were coming in through my door starting last summer."

Hoffman is proud of his work and the business he built and his story embodies much of the early American experience.

After landing in Maine, he worked on a railroad and ended up in Winnipeg before heading into Minnesota's wilderness through International Falls. He began working as a farmhand in the Minneapolis area, but he was saving every cent to buy a shoe repair business.

"I learned the trade in the old country when I was 14 — just naturally attracted to it, I guess," he said. 'But it's a trade you can't master. There's always something new coming."

Hoffman bought his business in 1929 and moved it from Waverly, Minn., to Watertown.

"I used to stay here from 6:30 to 11:30 at night sewing new harnesses," he said. "During the day I would repair other harnesses, but after business hours I could turn out one new harness a night."

He made the last one in 1940. After that there was no more demand.

In the corner of the shop sits an old-time shoeshine stand, a relic of prohibition days.

"Every Saturday night I was busy shining shoes one after another," he said. "But when prohibition went out, it stopped just like that. They got shined on the inside instead of on the outside."

The cost of repairing worn shoes has skyrocketed. In a matter of three years, Hoffman nhas raised his charges for resoling from $1.50 to $4, with new heels up from 50 cents to $2. He says that's nothing compared with "big city prices."

Hoffman is not that concerned with profits, however.

"When I just started I made all of $2,000," he said. "I felt I was a rich man when I made $6,000 and didn't want to work anymore."

Hofiman and his late wife raised two adopted daughters, but there is no son to carry on his heritage. Instead he took in a bearded young man specializing in upholstery, John Souza, to "take over the place when the time comes."

"He wants to work so I put him to work," is how Hoffman explains it, but he adds, "I made John my son."

As for retiring, "I retire every day at 5 p.m."

The Inflation Fighter

If your car is in good shape it will get much better fuel economy. This means regular tune-ups, changing oil and oil filter, keeping the spark plugs clean as well as similar "care-taking" measures — mainly minor things, but devastating if left unattended. It's false economy to let them go as long as the car is still running.

Many car owners have learned to get around garage costs by taking care of minor maintenance themselves. This includes people with no mechanical ability.

Many local colleges and high schools have inexpensive auto maintenance courses for the public.

If you hate to iron, congratulations. The ongoing energy crisis gives you a perfect excuse to give it us as a bad habit. A hand iron takes as much energy as 10 100-watt light bulbs, which means you have to turn off a lot of lights to make up for ironing a single shirt.

A commercial laundry isn't the answer, because the energy will still be used and it won't help your inflation budget a bit.

But seriously consider the merits of "no iron" items. Properly treated, they can reduce ironing to almost a miniscule amount. Use the right setting on your washer and dryer and remove clothes promptly so wrinkles don't set.

If you must iron, do it logically — low temperature items first, and all of it at once, not a bit each day. Turn your iron off before you're completely finished — so you don't waste that stored energy.

Food prices won't go down just because we don't like them. So concentrate instead on checking labels to get the most value for your money.

Unit pricing can be a big help: in addition to the cost of the item, supermarket shelf labels should tell you the price per ounce, pound or quart.

Then look at the item's label. Some manufacturers list the percentage of principal ingredients in the product. So if there's more sugar than wheat in the cereal you're buying, you will know it.

If you're thinking of buying a large freezer to help out with the food budget, consider the pros and cons of the frost-free model before you do. Admittedly more convenient, this model uses about 50 per cent more power than the type you have to defrost yourself.

If you choose the latter model, remember to defrost it before the ice gets too thick — ¼ inch. Ice lessens the cooling power of the coils. Defrosting more frequently will also lessen the chance of spoiled food from long defrosting periods.

How can you stretch your meat budget and still have tasty, tender steaks? The answer can be found in a single, simple word: marinate.

Instead of buying the most expensive cuts of meat — the ones marbled with fat that doesn't help your waistline anyhow — buy less expensive leaner cuts such as flank and round steak. Marinate these for 24 to 48 hours in a vinegar-and-oil mixture.

You can use less marinade, and get an overall better effect, by adding just enough of the mixture to cover the meat in a small plastic bag. Seal the bag and keep it in the refrigerator. Remember to turn it a few times.

When you're ready to eat, drain the steak and broil as usual.

Keep used envelopes and use the reverse side as scratch paper. They're especially good for grocery lists; you can store coupons on the inside.

You can keep these envelopes stored inside a larger used envelope. — A. P., Madison, Wis.

After meals wipe leftover food from plates with paper napkins that were used for the meal. These can also be used to clean out greasy pots and pans.

This saves gallons of water used in rinsing off dishes and possibly prevents clogged drains. — B. P., Marquette, Mich.

The pilot light of a gas stove is important for safety but it does use a bit of energy. Try using that normally lost heat to your advantage.

Th heat just one roll or a piece of pie, put it over the pilot light in a small pan for about an hour. Also, after the coffee is cooked, you can put the pot over the light to keep it warm. — M. W., York, Neb.

To keep a bed really warm, put some old wool quilts or blankets under the bottom sheet.

If you have an electric blanket, try turning it on an hour before you retire. You can turn the blanket off when you go to bed and it will stay warm as long as you stay in it.

The old method of using a hot water bottle also really helps get rid of a chill.—A. S., Yankton, SD.

This year, consider leaving the storm windows on when spring comes — their insulating effect is as valuable in the heat of summer as in the cold of winter.

This is especially wise for houses that are air conditioned and don't depend on outside air flow for comfort. — H. W., Cleveland, Ohio

Exec urges public panel poll on foreign policy

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — An international trade executive believes a cross-section of the American people should be formed into a huge panel and polled regularly on foreign policy.

The proposal for a public panel of 25,000 to 50,000 citizens was made recently before the Commission on the Organization of the Government for the Conduct of Foreign Policy.

Robert E. Gomperts, who made the suggestion, said such a panel would provide more information for policy makers and give a greater probability of wide public support on decisions involving foreign issues.

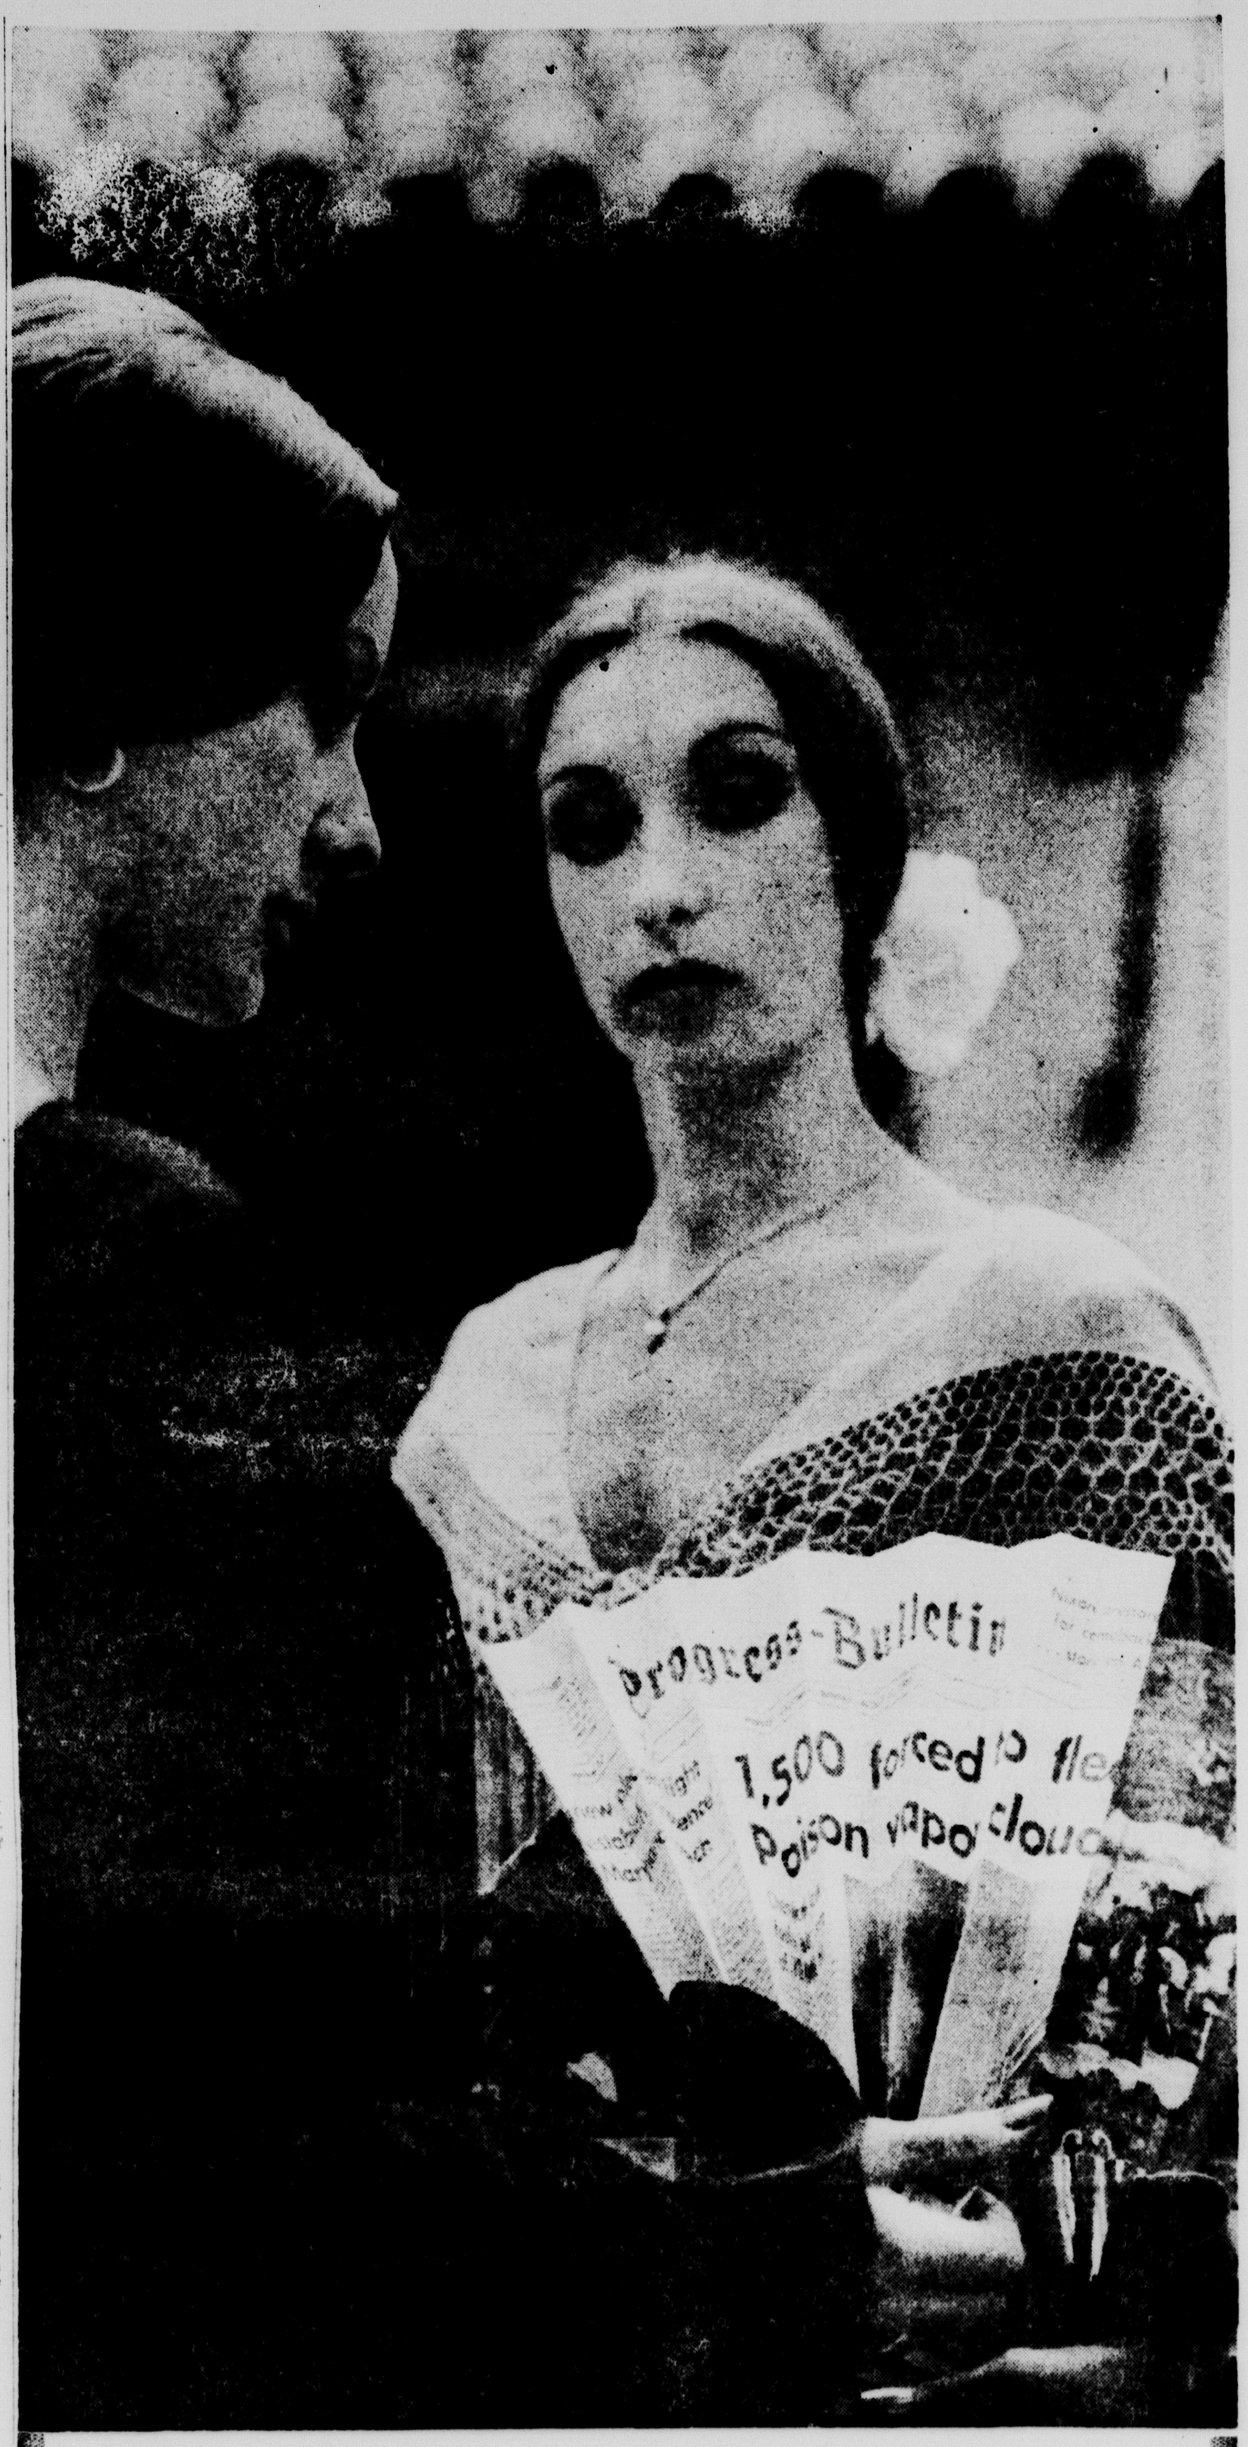
Gomperts, president of the California Council for International Trade, suggested each U.S. senator select 20 persons for the panel and each member of the House seven persons. The rest would come from labor, women's groups, religious organizations, universities and various other associations.

Operation on eagle a success

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (UPI) — A three-member surgical team conducted a two-hour operation recently that was termed a "complete success" but it will take another operation before the patient can fly again.

The patient is "Thunder," a rare eight-pound bald eagle with a six-foot wing span and a fractured right leg.

Dr. James Roush, one of six veteranarian surgeons in the nation specializing in the care of wild birds of prey, said it would take several months and another operation before the bird, one of an endangered species, can take to the sky.



Photographed in Sevilla, Spain, where the flamenco dancers have a lot of loyal fans. Admittedly, that copy of the Progress-Bulletin in the scene may seem a bit unusual, but, then, we always seem to find ourselves doing unusual things in unusual places.

We help fan some beautiful causes . . .

We help fan enthusiasm for various causes. That's OK, because promotion of worthy community endeavors is one of your hometown newspaper's important jobs. Advertisers pay for their use of these pages to help them sell. But non-commercial and civic organizations can often count on the Progress-Bulletin to cheer them on without cost if they're doing something which will help our town and neighboring communities. So if you've got a a beautiful cause, tell us about it. We may even turn out to be one of your most loyal fans.

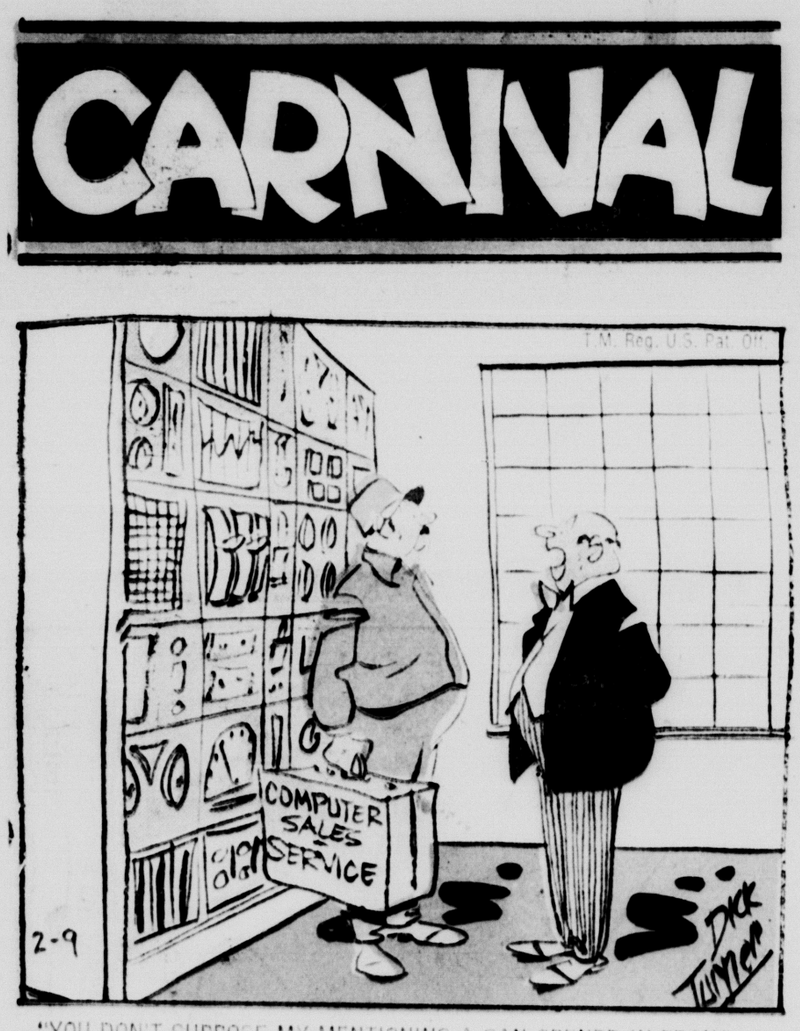
CARNIVAL



"YOU DON'T SUPPOSE MY MENTIONING A CAN OPENER IN FRONT OF IT HAD ANYTHING TO DO WITH IT, DO YOU?"

"NO, THIS IS MY SECOND . . . MY HUSBAND'S THIRD, BUT OUR FIRST!"

"YOU MUST BE NEW AT THIS GAME . . . YOU WON'T FIND ANYBODY WITH MONEY COMING OUT OF THERE!"

Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY — My Pointer concerns a first sewing project for a youngster. Glue any holiday or birthday card folder together. Punch holes around the picture. Show the child how to make stitches around the picture with yarn. The best needle for this project can be easily made by bending one end of a pipe cleaner to form the eye of the needle and hold the yarn. The other straight end becomes the point of the needle. — DAWN.

Polly pays $1.00 for every idea used. Send them to her c/o this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY — Here's a good way to make individual cakes for parties: Wash and dry tuna or small cat food cans, grease and flour as you would any cake pans. When cakes are baked and cool, remove from cans, split each one across the middle and fill with cream filling. Put cakes back together, frost and decorate. — CHRIS.

DEAR POLLY — My husband sanded and varnished a dead stem from a cactus plant. I put it in a pot for ivy to grow on. It looks great and works perfectly. — MRS. D.K.

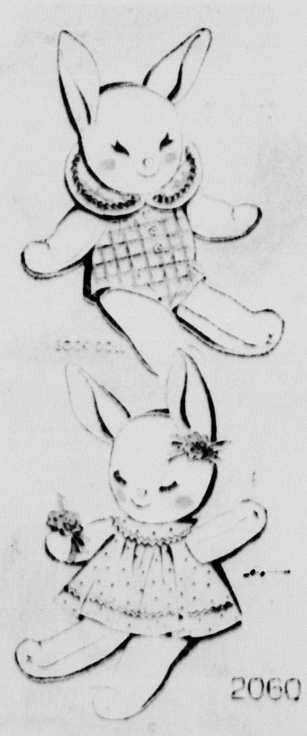
DEAR POLLY — When making stuffed toys use a metal zipper for the teeth instead of tape. The zipper really looks like teeth and is especially good when making animals. — TOMMIE.

DEAR POLLY — When giving my 15-month-old baby a bath I save water and give a feeling of security by washing him in a plastic wash tub placed inside the regular bathtub. He still has lots of room to play and can grab the sides of this tub when he needs to. — CATHY.

DEAR POLLY — Our kitchen is small so the walls are plain and the decor comes from a pretty flannel-backed, plastic tablecloth. An average size cloth with a border will make four or five appliance covers with ruffles. Smaller prints in the center will make appliques for plain curtains. A cloth with an overall pattern will go even further. I think you will find this idea worth a try and any desired arrangements can be worked out. — MRS. R.K.Z.

DEAR POLLY — Those who have typewriters should save the old ribbons if they have plants in the garden that have to be tied up. Soak the ribbons in a strong bleach solution. It is not necessary to remove all the ink, but enough so the hands will not be soiled when using it. Cut to the proper lengths, you will find there are yards and yards on each roll. — MRS. O.H.D.

DEAR POLLY — We found some old shutters, painted them, put cloth matching our bedroom scheme into the open spaces and then hung them on the wall to make a bed headboard. — D.S.H.



Happy Couple

Adorable Mr. and Mrs. Bunny will win the approval of the children. This couple are stitched from men's socks. No. 2060 has pattern pieces for bunnies and costumes, full directions.

TO ORDER: Send 60c plus 15c for postage and handling with name, address, pattern number and size to PATTERNS (c/o this newspaper), Box 438B, Midtown Station, New York, NY 10018.

BREADFRUIT GETS ITS NAME BECAUSE THE LARGE, ROUND, STARCHY, FRUIT. LOOKS AND TASTES SOMEWHAT LIKE BREAD WHEN BAKED AND COOKED.

THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:

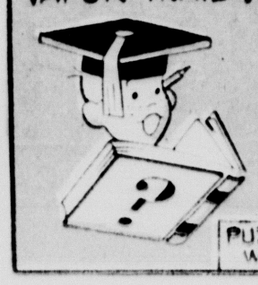
"WHAT CAUSES A VAPOR TRAIL?"



VAPOR TRAILS ARE SOMETIMES FORMED IN THE WAKE OF HIGH-FLYING AIRPLANES. VAPOR TRAILS ARE MADE UP OF TINY WATER DROPLETS OR ICE CRYSTALS, MUCH LIKE THOSE FOUND IN CLOUDS. AS THE AIRPLANE FLIES THROUGH THE SUPER-COOLED AIR, THE WATER VAPOR EMITTED IN THE EXHAUST OF ITS ENGINES CONDENSES IN THE COLD AIR, LEAVING A LONG CLOUDLIKE TRAIL IN THE AIRPLANE'S WAKE.

'CLOSE-UP LOOK AT AWESOME CREATURES'

ABC Sports' The American Sportsman takes viewers to the depths oft Australia's great Barrier Reef for a spectacular visit to the realm of the shark, Sunday, at 2:30PM. Acting as host and guide for this remarkable expedition is Peter Benchley, author of the best-selling novel, "Jaws." Benchley, who readily admits that his immensely successful work was a product of research and his own imagination, lives out his Mittyesque fantasies with sharks in some of the most dramatic sequences ever filmed.

On The American Sportsman, Benchley and his friend and colleague, underwater photographer Stan Waterman, undertake a journey beneath the waves where the shark is supreme, to study and record the life style of this primitive and awesome marine creature. At first, the story for Benchley is one of frustration. His dives demonstrate the abundance and variety of marine life off the Great Barrier Reef, but no sharks are in evidence. Then he encounters a large and menacing Tiger Shark—the first significant confrontation with a shark in his life. As the crew waits in the mouth of a nearby subterranean cave, Benchley and Stan Waterman move closer to film the feeding shark—with Waterman coming so close to the voracious fish that his camera repeatedly bumps against the shark's body. Describing his feelings at that moment, Benchley notes that the fear he knew before going into the water evaporated in the presence of the shark. He had one single overwhelming preoccupation—that of survival. Next, at Dangerous Reef, Benchley and Waterman go in search of the most impressive and dangerous shark of all—the Great White Shark. In the process, they film some of the most vivid footage of sharks ever recorded. For safety, the crew lowers shark cages into the water, and the filming of the predator takes place from behind the cages' bars. But the Great White, unperturbed, calmly attempts to eat their cages—a chilling reminder of a crucial sequence from Benchley's novel in which a young oceanographer is killed by a shark which battered its way through his protective cage.

If you were invited to a sit down party for six and your host asked you to strip and join friends and strangers in a "hot-tub" would you be shocked or obliging? How about participating in group sex on a Malibu mountain top? Would you join a sexual freedom club or swap mates? Maybe you wouldn't but thousands of Southern Californians would and do. Starting tonight Channel 2 News reporters Bill Applegate and Patty Ecker follow the sexual liberation movement wherever it leads them and you're invited.

'SIMULATING A DISASTER'

In company with other recent Irwin Allen-produced films, "Adventures of the Queen," a two-hour special CBS Friday Night Movies at 9PM, spotlights a spectacular disaster. "Adventures of the Queen," starring Robert Stack as a cruise ship captain, focuses on the crisis that overtakes his vessel when it is learned a bomb planted aboard is about to explode. Producer Allen previously chronicled the capsizing of the world's largest ocean liner in "The Poseidon Adventure" and, more recently, the fire before the dedication of the world's tallest skyscraper in "The Towering Inferno."

In "Adventures of the Queen" veteran Capt. James Morgan, unable to prevent the explosion that could seal the massive liner's fate, then fights alongside his crew to save the ship in the dramatic below-deck scenes that provided a challenge to the technical skills of art director Stan Jolley and the special effects department of Twentieth Century-Fox studios. Except for this climatic sequence, the balance of the two-hour suspense drama obtains its authentic flavor from filming aboard the former luxury liner Queen Mary, now flourishing as a hotel and major tourist attraction in the Port of Long Beach, Calif. But building a simulated cargo hold on a sound stage, where the chaotic aftermath of an explosion and fire could be filmed, taxed the know-how to Jolley and his staff. The hold's bulkheads and rivets were created of fiberglass, which required application of special fire-retardant paint to resist the flames which would blaze up from gas jets hidden out of camera view. Pumping hundreds of gallons of water through the gap which represented a rupture in the hull posed an added problem to special effects man Logan Frazee.

Robert Stack (right) as the captain, David Hedison (center) as the doctor, and Richard Slattery as the chief engineer of a luxury liner examine damages caused by an explosion.

Since the explosion-fire scenes would require Stack to wade knee-deep in cold water, it was feared his nagging cold might worsen, thereby delaying filming of the rest of the production. So the water was pumped through a heating tank that raised its temperature to 68 degrees. As the flames roared, smoke billowed up and water gushed into the hold, the camera captured the critical attempt of the captain, his ship's doctor (David Hedison) and the chief engineer (Richard X. Slattery) to seal the ruptured seam with mattresses secured by beams buttressed against the opposite bulkhead.

Jolley's work wasn't done with the completion of the cargo hold set, however. He also had to supervise re-installation of a sick bay and dispensary, a brig and armory and a radio-room aboard the mighty Queen herself. All these facilities had been removed to make way for the conversion of the Queen Mary into a hotel-museum-shopping center.

Even the Royal Suite, which was home to the Queen of England on her many ocean crossings, didn't escape Jolley's touch. He converted the royal quarters into four staterooms for "Adventures of the Queen."

'TRIAL OF GALILEO'

A detective story to match any of television's private eye programs, combined with a court trial to rival the most thrilling Perry Mason story, prove on TV's "Ascent of Man" series that truth may indeed be stranger than fiction. To help tell the story of the Scientific Revolution, Dr. Jacob Bronowski focusses on the trial of Galileo that led to the revolt of scientists against the dogma of the Catholic Church. And as part of the story, Bronowski and his production crew were permitted to film inside the secret archives of the Vatican in Rome, something never before allowed.

The late Dr. Bronowski, who created, wrote and narrates "The Ascent of Man," a study of mankind's cultural evolution through the ages, discusses Galileo and his trial in an episode entitled "The Starry Messenger," at 8:30PM, Tuesday on KCET, Channel 28.

As explained by executive producer Adrian Malone, Bronowski opens a safe in the heart of the Vatican's secret archives to display the actual Galileo file. Then, as any TV detective might have done, he unearths the trickery that led the great astronomer to admit his "guilt." And he reenacts the trial with the authentic text that sounds almost like a Perry Mason hearing.

Bronowski opens the program with a visit to Easter Island, explains producer Malone, pointing up that a civilization that does not progress is stymied, and ends in a "cul-de-sac." This leads directly to the discussion of Galileo, in which the Catholic Church, by attempting to cut off scientific progress with its emphasis on "Divine Dogma," similarly wound up in a dead-end that saw science leave the Mediterranean area and move north to other parts of Europe.

Bronowski traces Galileo's many scientific achievements that led him to adopt the theory of Copernicus, which held that the planets revolved around the sun. This was in direct conflict with the Church's belief that the earth was the center of the universe, and so led to the charge against him of heresy and his trial before the Inquisition.

"We reconstruct exactly the trial room," says producer Malone. "We show what happened at the trial, explain the torture rack and all the other things that happened." By following the Galileo file, Bronowski was able to show the number and style of chairs used, the location of the table and list the names of all the judges.

Galileo, 70 years old at the time, feared the Inquisition's torture and so recanted. But, as Bronowski points out in the Mobil-funded program, he scored a moral victory by finally writing the book that had been forbidden by the Church. Then, blind and dying, he was visited by several of his admirers, among them the English poet John Milton—who ironically was himself blind 30 years later when he wrote his famous epic poem.

'CRY FOR HELP'

Robert Culp prepared for his role in "A Cry for Help," an ABC Wednesday Movie of the Week at 8:30PM, in a rather unusual way—by listening to the radio, morning, noon and night. Culp portrays one of those radio talk show hosts who listens to and answers his listeners' gripes. As a perfectionist in whatever role he plays, Culp gave his ears a good workout in the two weeks preceding the start of the film.

"I had listened to phone call-type shows before, but without really paying too much attention except to realize that there are indeed a few odd characters who participate in these shows," says Culp. "Now, hearing the shows—and they are on all hours, day and night—with a purpose, I became fascinated with not only the variety of callers, but with the radio host himself."

Culp found that the emcees had a variety of personalities, too. Some patient, others abrasive, some witty. "The type I portray is a very cynical man, a bit fed up with the nonsense that his listeners call in," he says. "It is his cynicism that motivates a young girl caller into threatening suicide, a threat that is passed off with a few flip remarks until it is realized that maybe the girl means business."

Then, in a unique twist, Culp must try to persuade his listeners, the same ones whose intelligence he insults, to try to find this unknown girl before it's too late. "Our story is hypothetical, but it is certainly possible that it could happen, and maybe it has happened somewhere in the country, considering the great number of radio shows of this type," points out the actor. "I believe every major city has a few such shows. In Los Angeles there are several and I heard them all. For a lot of people these shows are a catharsis. Something's bugging them, they have no one to talk to, so they call up Joe Talk-show, give their opinion or gripe on a subject, chat with the host and that's it. They may not like what the host tells them, but the main thing is that someone listened to them!"

CHER: 'GOING SOLO'

Cher is on her own. In the midst of all the jockeying, second-guessing and industry suspense surrounding this year's usually profuse crop of mid-season replacement shows, the speculation over the activities on CBS Television City's Stage 33 is the most intensive of all.

On the stage, the energy level seems to be tuned at permanent hustle. Grips, gaffers, decorators and other crew members scurry in and out of camera range on errands of obvious urgency; producer George Schlatter of Laugh-In fame, moves faster than anyone else in the room; and in the center of it all, seemingly unmoved by all the flurry, stands the lady on whose elegant shoulders responsibility for all this rests: Cher, born Cherilyn Sarkisian in the undecidedly unglamorous environs of El Centro, California.

As far as the television viewer is concerned, this is Cher's show, and Cher's alone. But the lady has learned the value of teamwork on all levels, and in addition to producer Schlatter she has surrounded herself with talent three deep: costume designer Bob Mackie, set designer Bob Kelly, director Art Fisher. Her faith in them may have something to do with her ability to remain "the calm at the center of the storm" as taping pressures mount.

It may also have something to do with her guest stars for CHER, the television special which will air on CBS Wednesday at 10PM. She will be joined by none other than rock's current super-super-star, Elton John (in his first television appearance) as well as Flip Wilson and Bette Midler. The opening show of her new series, which—for reasons best known to television programmers—begins the following Sunday, February 16 at 7:30PM, she will find herself in the company of Raquel Welch and Tatum O'Neal . . . one of the most bizarre teamings in recent memory.

Even a mob of talented people, however, isn't necessarily a guarantee of success—and this is a fact of which both Cher and producer Schlatter seem very much aware. Consequently, they are adding one other ingredient: hard work. When CHER goes on the air Wednesday night, the viewer will see an effortless-looking hour of music, comedy and fashion. The effortlessness, as everyone on Stage 33 knows, is being purchased at the cost of twelve hour days, seven days a week.

When the series is off and running, there might be time to relax. Until then, there's a show being born . . . and everybody on Stage 33 wants it to be one of the best.

'THOUGHT-PROVOKING FILM'

"It's a thought-provoking film," says James Franciscus about his latest movie, "The Trial of Chaplain Jensen," airing as the ABC Tuesday Movie of the Week at 8:30PM. The true account of the only chaplain in the history of the United States to be court-martialed on any charge, and the only officer in the history of the U.S. Navy to be court-martialed on charges of adultery only, stars Emmy-winner (The Glass Menagerie") Joanna Miles as his wife Kathleen. Other key roles are played by Charles Durning, Harris Yulin and Lynda Day George.

"The tragedy was the enormous cost in emotion and money for Chaplain Jensen to clear his name," says Franciscus. "I think he took a terrible risk with his own position and that of his wife and children, but he wanted his name cleared. One certainly sympathizes with him and admires him." About his portrayal, Franciscus says, "The trap that's easy to fall into in playing a priest or a chaplain is becoming too pious. I tried to play him as a human being with anger. As a matter of fact," he adds "the Chaplain really learned about hate for the first time. He won, but he was scarred." After his acquittal, Chaplain Jensen was given a new post by the Navy at the Princeton Theological Seminary. He is currently serving on the chaplaincy staff at Philadelphia Naval Hospital.

OSCAR WINNING TEAM

During the past six years lyricists Alan & Marilyn Bergman have been nominated for Academy Awards six times—and, indeed, won the Oscar twice, for their lyrics to "The Windmills of Your Mind" and "The Way We Were." But this year the Bergmans (husband and wife) admit they have little hope for an Oscar nomination.

"We were so involved in our TV project during 1974 that we simply didn't have time to write songs for motion pictures," they say.

The "TV project" in which the Bergmans were involved was the first original dramatic musical ever written for television, "Queen of the Stardust Ballroom", which airs as a CBS Special, Thursday at 9PM. It stars Maureen Stapleton and Charles Durning.

"It didn't start out to be a musical," says Marilyn Bergman, "but while the program was still in its planning stages composer Billy Goldenberg convinced the producers, Bob Christiansen and Rick Rosenberg, that the story line gave them an opportunity to break new ground in TV, if they would redesign it as a musical. And that's what was done."

The story deals with a widow (Maureen Stapleton) who decides to overcome her sorrow and start to live again by going dancing. At the ballroom she meets a man (Charles Durning), with whom a romance blossoms.

The Bergmans, together with Goldenberg, wrote six original songs, which are sung in the production by Miss Stapleton, Durning and Martha Tilton, whom many will recall as one of the foremost singers of the "big band" era.

"At the time we wrote our songs we didn't know who would be signed for the major roles—but we knew they would be actors, rather than singers.

"So, we wrote songs that would be performed, rather than sung. And, we wrote lyrics which are part-and-parcel of the plot. In other words, the lyrics actually replace dialogue, as they advance the plot of the story from one point to the next," says Bergman. "As songwriters, we couldn't be luckier than to have two performers like Miss Stapleton and Durning do them. I must admit that when we were told who had been signed for the leading roles in 'Queen of the Stardust Ballroom' we leapt for joy when we heard about Maureen Stapleton, but weren't quite sure who Charles Durning was.

"Well, we'll tell you now that Charles Durning may become a major TV star as a result of his performance in this program. We're not taking anything away from Miss Stapleton—far from it, because she's actually sensational. But Durning is an eye-opener, not only with his acting, but with his singing and dancing. Our choreographer, Marge Champion, was almost in a state of shock the first time she watched this man dance. He's fantastic."

'JULIE COULDN'T LOSE'

If Julie Kavner's voice echoes the vocal inflections of the Bronx —and it does—it can only be attributed to the dominant power of heredity over environment. Miss Kavner was born in Los Angeles. Her parents are from New York. The young actress, who made her professional acting debut this season as Brenda Morgenstern in the Rhoda series, has just completed her first starring role. She plays a plain Jane New York librarian in "The Girl Who Couldn't Lose," an ABC Afternoon Playbreak comedy presentation airing Thursday at 1:30PM.

JULIE KAVNER

Her producer, Lila Garrett, who also co-authored the original teleplay, along with Sanford Krinski, had Julie in mind for the leading role from the very outset. "The part calls for a tall New York girl, very unsure of herself, who becomes a celebrity when her broad knowledge of everything makes her a consistent winner on a weekly television game show. Julie Kavner was born to play Jane Darwin." As an added bonus, the role calls for 15 costume changes, including some stunning outfits.

Julie, who majored in theatre arts at California State University in San Diego, appeared in plays at college and at community theatres after graduation. She won a Best Actress award at the famous Old Globe theatre in San Diego for her part in "Tavern." She was doing clerical work at UCLA's School of Architecture when she auditioned for the CBS series that was to lead to her first professional role and introduce her to national television audiences. Now, after only four months on television, she is the star of her own comedy special, "The Girl Who Couldn't Lose." "I guess I'm pretty lucky," she says. The other word for it, Julie, is talent.

DAVID WOLPER: 'A LINCOLN BUFF'

David Wolper, who is a Lincoln buff, has wanted to do a series on Lincoln for years. "I didn't particularly think I'd get the rights to Sandburg's Lincoln when the estate was willing to make the books available," said Wolper. "But they knew I was a Lincoln collector and this was very important in my getting the property. One of the persons bidding against me was George C. Scott. It took six months to acquire the rights. People representing the estate came out to check over my collection."

The result is "Sandburg's Lincoln," starring Hal Holbrook in the title role and Sada Thompson as his wife, Mary Todd Lincoln, in six one-hour drama specials based on Carl Sandburg's Pulitzer Prize-winning six-volume biography. The second of these Wolper Productions, "Sad Figure, Laughing," airs on NBC on Lincoln's birthday, Wednesday, at 10PM.

Wolper, executive producer of the series, has a number of rare items in his Lincoln collection. One of the best known is the Grace Bedell letter ($50,000), written by the little 11-year-old girl who suggested Lincoln should grow whiskers. "If you let your whiskers grow," she wrote, "I'll try to get the rest of them to vote for you. You would look a great deal better, for your face is so thin. All the ladies like whiskers and they would tease their husbands to vote for you and then you would be President."

The letter had been in a family vault in Delphos, Kansas, when Wolper bought it at auction in 1966. Wolper owns a letter from Grace Bedell to a friend, in which she mentions receiving an answer from Lincoln, who thanked her but asked, "Don't you think it would be a silly affectation?"

Wolper has a copy of The New York Times edition of Feb. 18, 1861, giving an account of Lincoln meeting Grace at the railroad station while on his way to Washington to be sworn in as President. Lincoln, who had let his whiskers grow, asked if, in the words of the article: "his fair correspondent . . . was among the crowd. In response to the call, a lassie made her way through the crowd and was helped on the platform and kissed by the President."

Wolper's collection also includes the Joint-Congressional Resolution which became the 13th Amendment (anti-slavery), one of three copies in existence ($25,000); two photos (with and without whiskers); the original pencil sketch of Lincoln in his coffin by Pierre Morand, a noted Franco-American artist, who bribed the guards in the middle of the night to let him sketch Lincoln's face; original editions of the New York Herald headlining the issuing of the Emancipation Proclamation (Sept. 23, 1862) and Lincoln's assassination (April 15, 1865).

"Lincoln," concluded Wolper, "was a man of the people. It's a wonderment where all his genius came from. He was humorous, bright and had an understanding of people. He had NO ego. That's the key to the man—he looked for the best man." That is the theme of "Sad Figure, Laughing."

AN IDEA FROM MEXICO

James Komack, creator and executive producer of the hit new Chico and the Man comedy series on NBC (Fridays at 8:30PM), claims the idea for the series began to come to him while he was directing in Mexico.

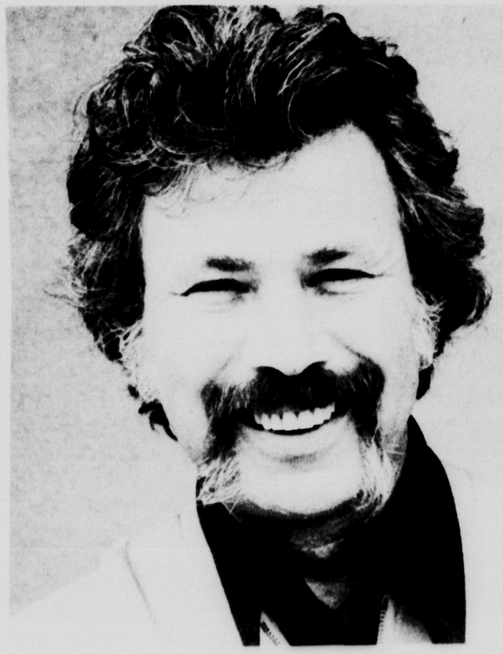
"While I was in Mexico I began to learn how to speak Spanish," Komack relates. "I came back here and started to study the language. It was easy because there is no place you can go here and not be able to speak Spanish. As I got more involved, I discovered the barrio and finally I discovered Chico. What I did was put him with the old man."

The old man is played by Oscar winner Jack Albertson. Chico is portrayed by 20-year-old Hispanic comic from New York Freddie Prinze. "When we tested them, the chemistry between Albertson and Prinze was perfect," says Komack. "That's why he got the part. He and Jack made it happen."

Komack is a show business grand slam. He started out by doing standup comedy in smart New York supper clubs. He broke into TV by playing Dr. Harvey Spencer Blair II, the millionaire dentist, for three seasons on Hennesy with Jackie Cooper. The second season he began writing some of the scripts. From there he went on to directing and directed the Dick Van Dyke Show, Gallant Men, Combat, 77 Sunset Strip, the Lloyd Bridges Show and received an Emmy nomination for Dr. Kildare. After directing Tarzan for TV in Mexico, Komack came back and created, produced and sometimes acted (Uncle Norman) in The Courtship of Eddie's Father, for which he received another Emmy nomination and a Golden Globe from the Foreign Press. The series ran for three years.

In May of 1974, he came up with the pilot of Chico and the Man, which he created, wrote and produced. He has been too busy to direct more than one episode, the "Sammy Steps In" segment with Sammy Davis Jr.

Along the line, Komack made it to Broadway, starring in "Damn Yankee" and introducing to the world the song "You've Gotta Have Heart". He also did the "Hole In The Head" movie with Frank Sinatra. Komack's first bit of writing was topical night club material. In addition to writing for himself, he sold songs and patter to other performers, notably Eartha Kitt and Robert Clary. Komack has recorded a gold hit record, "The Knickname Song". He has made 8 albums and 14 singles, mostly comedy routines but some songs. Komack lives with his wife Cluny and his daughter Maxine in Beverly Hills, where their life style could easily serve as the premise for another TV comedy. "It is like open house 24 hours a day," he describes it.



PATTY DUKE ASTIN SETTLES DOWN

While filming a guest-starring role in the "Nothing Left to Lose" episode of Columbia's Police Woman series, airing Friday at 10PM on NBC, Patty Duke Astin's make-up man and hairdresser were having an argument. The disagreement concerned Patty's age. The make-up man swore she is 32 while the hairdresser said 30. Another interested party challenged with 35, saying that since she's been in show business for more than 20 years, she's got to be at least that old.

"The truth of the matter," says Patty, "is that I just celebrated a birthday and am actually and honestly 28. Since I have been around so long, people always seem to think I'm older than I am." Patty joins Police Woman stars Angie Dickinson and Earl Holliman for a role that's perfectly suited to her liking—that of a down-and-out born-loser whose only rank in life is that of a police informant. Her husband John Astin also appears in the episode in a cameo role.

For a girl who, at 16, won an Academy Award as best supporting actress in her first motion picture, "The Miracle Worker;" won an Emmy for her performance in the NBC-TV World Premiere, "My Sweet Charlie;" had her own television series, "The Patty Duke Show," and was the youngest Broadway actress to have star billing above the title of a play, life has sure changed for Patty Duke Astin.

Aside from occasional television guestings and touring theatres all over the country with her actor-husband, her whole life is wrapped up in her family. "When we play a theatre on the road," says Patty, "the entire family goes." The entire family consists of five boys, David, Allen, Tom, Sean and Mackenzie. Family life is very important to Patty and she heartily agrees with sociologists about the family unit theory. "The family unit is the basic unit and building block of any society. If the family breaks apart, so dies the society."

"What John and I have done," admits Patty, "is to construct our family lives so that the gears mesh with family life and work. One complements the other. And our family greatly enjoys what we do for a living. The secret is, we all hang out a lot together."

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR HAROLD ROBBINS, author of "The Pirate," "The Carpetbaggers," "The Adventurers," "Where Love Has Gone" and other best-selling novels

Have you ever watched anybody reading your books and looking bored?—G. B., Green Bay, Wis.

● I've been writing for 30 years and, thankfully, have been spared that dreadful sight. However, on the subway once I saw two teenagers holding copies of "Never Love a Stranger," my first novel. They were discussing it, leafing through the pages and pointing to certain sections. I was so interested, I moved closer and closer—and ended up with my face on the girl's shoulder. She said something in a loud voice, which I can't repeat, and moved to another seat. I was mortified! I should have introduced myself, I guess, but I was too embarrassed. I never found out what they were saying.

FOR LEON JAWORSKI, former Watergate prosecutor

Who was the most influential person in your life?—G. Hoffman, Waterbury, Conn.

● As a child, it was my father. My mother died when I was three, and my dad immediately became two parents rolled into one for me. In later life, it has been my wife (we've been married for 43 years).

FOR KATHY LENNON

I had always read that you Lennon girls felt your children and homes came first. How do you explain going off to Las Vegas to perform?—M. O. A., Indio, Calif.

● We go away from home only three times a year at the most, for three weeks at a time. But we have our children and husbands with us. We turn the trips into vacations, and we love it, because none of us has household help! This year we even talked Mom into coming to Las Vegas with us, so she had the first vacation she's had in years!

FOR MRS. VIDAL SASSOON, wife of the hair stylist

What's it like having your own built-in hairdresser?—L. T., Greensburg, Pa.

● I wouldn't know—because Vidal's not home all the time. He travels a great deal to our branches in the U.S. and Europe. And when he's here, I go to his salon—just like other women. Vidal still can't get used to the idea that when I go, I bring my own shampoo, which was specially prescribed for me by a dermatologist because I have oily skin.

FOR JOSE FELICIANO

You've said that blindness has never been an obstacle. Can you get involved in sports?—D. B., Salinas, Calif.

● You bet! I love to sail, water-ski and fish. I also go horseback riding whenever I have the chance. My favorite mare is "Herman." Later this year I'm going to Aspen to learn how to ski.

FOR DON MEREDITH, sportscaster-actor

Why did you quit announcing Monday night football games?—Bill Graham, Herman, Calif.

● Some genius determined that just one game on Monday night attracted more viewers than "Gone With the Wind," "The Sound of Music" and several other films combined. I am not completely pure of mind and spirit, but I knew this was crazy. I got disappointed in myself and felt I had to get away. I had lost my taste for the show and was doing too many things I didn't like.

FOR JEANE DIXON, seeress

You predicted Mr. Nixon would come through Watergate successfully. Do you think your prediction has come true?—Mrs. Merlin Brough, Rancho Palos Verdes, Calif.

● I still feel that Mr. Nixon will go down in history as a great President.

FOR MARY BACON, jockey

What are the pros and cons of being a woman in "a man's field"?—S. P., Poughkeepsie, N.Y.

● Many people still believe a woman belongs at home, not on the track, no matter how well she proves her ability to ride. So the best part is self-satisfaction and the weekly paycheck. This is the only way I can support myself and my daughter. Also, it's lots of fun—until you break that first bone.

FOR TINY TIM

However did you pick such a name for yourself?—T. S., Little Rock, Ark.

● Not because of my size, that's for sure. I'm 6-1 and 205 pounds. As a school dropout named Herbert Khaury (my real name), I got my first job delivering film cans for MGM in New York. Then I got into show business and became "Larry Love" in the '50's. I didn't care for that too much and changed it to "Darry Dove," which was followed by "Sir Timothy Thames." "Tiny Tim," dreamed up by my manager, was "born" in Greenwich Village in 1963.

FOR THE ASK THEM YOURSELF EDITOR

Could you tell me something about Peter Allen, Liza Minnelli's ex-husband?—M. O., Spartanburg, S.C.

● He planned to be a piano tuner in Australia, his home, and in his spare time formed a musical act with his friend Chris, who later became his partner. During her 1967 Australian tour, Judy Garland caught their act, was impressed by it and invited them to London to open her Palladium show. That's where Peter met Judy's daughter Liza. Three years later, on the day Liza and Peter separated, he met comedian David Steinberg, who suggested Peter become a songwriter. He was then signed by A & M Records, which released his first album, "Continental American." He recently appeared at New York's Reno Sweeney, and will go on a club and concert tour. He lives in New York, enjoys being "single," and has no immediate plans to remarry.

My Favorite Valentine Memory...

Loving-Sad-Funny Stories From "The Day of Hearts"

Compiled by Anita Summer.

We decided Valentine's Day was the perfect time to find out, once and for all, "Are women more romantic than men and do they place a greater emphasis on sentimental things, such as important dates?"

So we polled many of the celebrities who are popular with FAMILY WEEKLY readers. The women led by an overwhelming majority—they had no problems immediately recalling their favorite Valentine's Day stories; on the other hand, the men who did come up with something needed a lot of time to think, and to some of them, February 14 appears to be no different from any other day.

HUGH O'BRIAN

Five years ago, Hugh O'Brian sent two dozen red roses to a very special lady, but she never received them. The florist did deliver on time but, instead of the actor's handpicked, long-stemmed blooms, what she got was a funeral wreath with a card reading, "My deepest sympathy."

"Needless to say, there was a mix-up in the orders," shuddered O'Brian. "My gorgeous bouquet—with its message, 'I miss you and love you'—was sent to the funeral parlor, addressed to the deceased. At first, my lady friend was horrified when she saw the wreath, and thought this was my perverted and bizarre way of breaking off our romance. But fortunately, her common sense and sense of humor came to the rescue, and she realized she had been the victim of a dreadful error."

JERRY STILLER

"When Anne [Meara] slunk up to me every February 14 with lowered eyelids, whispering seductively, 'Do you know what today is?' I'd say, 'Sure, it's Tuesday,' or whatever. Then she'd march out of the room and sulk. Finally, a couple of years ago, our club opening fell on Valentine's Day (I didn't know—I was told), so I thought I'd use my head for a change. I went on first and when I introduced Annie, I did it like this: 'Meet my sweetheart. Not just today. She's my girl every day of the year.'"

THE DAY NANCY O'CONNOR REMEMBERS

"The Valentine's Day I remember best," said Nancy O'Connor, wife of TV's Carroll O'Connor, "happened exactly 20 years ago, in 1955. Carroll and I were living with his mother in Forest Hills, N.Y., and on Valentine's Day the two of them went off to Mass. Now I knew Carroll doesn't believe in what he calls 'commercial holidays,' so I wasn't expecting anything from him. In fact, I suspected he wasn't even aware it was Valentine's Day. You can imagine my surprise when, returning from church, he walked in with a heart-shaped box of candy! 'Why, Carroll,' I said, 'this is very sweet of you!' 'Yeah,' he said. 'It's a good thing I went to Mass with my mother. I'd have never thought of it if she hadn't reminded me.' Well, that's my husband! But I was terribly pleased!"

DELLA REESE

"I use February 14 as the day to remember all the men in my life. Not just boyfriends, but business associates too. I show them I care by sending floral arrangements. (Why are they only sent to women? Men enjoy flowers too!) My beau gets gardenias and my colleagues get plants. When they receive them, they know I really do care." Miss Reese says her Valentine florist bill runs to $250.

MARLO THOMAS

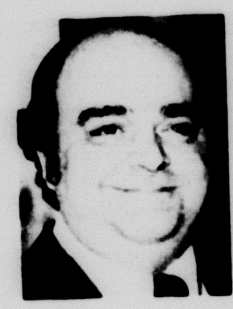
"When I was in seventh grade, I received the prettiest unsigned Valentine's Day card with a tender message ('I'll love you forever from near and far—Signed, Your Secret Admirer'). There was a boy in the class I had a crush on. I hoped (and prayed) he was the sender. In a very unsubtle way I simpered, 'Thanks for your note.' He stared at me blankly. He wasn't the one. I never found out who it was. It still bothers me, and it's not too late for him to own up! I call that my 'Agatha Christie Valentine's Day card.'"

JOEY AND CINDY ADAMS

While Joey and Cindy Adams were visiting Indonesia, President Sukarno asked if they could buy him Valentine's Day presents for his four wives and 12 concubines. He wanted 16 identical blouses, in a shade that matched the sky-blue of a painting in his palace. Adams said it would be impossible to remember the color, so Sukarno took the painting off the wall and gave it to Adams to take back to the U.S. for reference. The 16 blouses (in the right blue) were duly shipped off to Indonesia. "What should I do with the painting?" Joey then asked Sukarno. "Keep it," he was told. "It's your Valentine's Day present." That objet d'art, worth $250,000, is now the Adams' prized possession.

JIMMY COCO

Jimmy Coco had a dinner date on Valentine's Day and decided to give the girl a box of his favorite fudge. "She was late. I was getting bored and hungry, and to pass the time started sneaking candy out of the box. It was yummy, so I took more—and so on. By the time she was ready, I'd finished the whole box. Naturally, the edge was off my appetite and I didn't eat with my usual gusto. My date was worried—she'd never seen me off my feed before—and I was too embarrassed to explain. Anyway, I made it up to her on the way home with an enormous box of chocolates and a special big kiss."



LYNN REDGRAVE

"I was in love for the first time at 14. I met a boy at a dance and fell for him like a ton of bricks. We exchanged addresses and started corresponding. He signed his first letter, 'Yours sincerely.' I was bolder in my closing when I answered. His reply was encouraging—he wrote, 'Best wishes.' To that I responded, 'Love, yours.' The next communication from him was a Valentine's Day card, with a mushy message and a note swearing everlasting love. And that," said Lynn, "was the last time I ever heard from him!"

KATHRYN CROSBY

"Before Bing left my hospital room, he handed me a huge roll of surgical dressing and said, 'Give this to the doctor and say it's a new kind of bandage. But it's in a tangle, so rewind it first,'" recalled Kathryn Crosby. Attached to the end of the roll she found an enamel box from Fabergé that contained a small heart-shaped brooch. "I was so excited and touched by it," said Kathy, "and it seemed like the good omen I needed." It was. The report was negative; the lump was benign. As far as Mrs. Crosby is concerned, nothing could ever surpass that Valentine's Day.

The New Columbia Encyclopedia

THE ONLY ONE CREATED BY A UNIVERSITY PRESS

More than 6,600,000 words, more than 50,000 articles
400 illustrations, 250 maps, thumb-indexed

Look what this noted book authority says about The New Columbia:

"The New Columbia Encyclopedia, as far as I am concerned, is the most important publishing event of 1975. It is a reference book that should be in every home, along with a desk dictionary and an atlas. It is a most appropriate gift for weddings, anniversaries, graduations, birthdays or any gift-giving occasion. It is a useful reference book for college and high school students, and is not beyond the reach and understanding of boys and girls in the seventh or eighth grade."

Charles B. Anderson,
CHAIRMAN, BOARD OF PUBLICATIONS
AMERICAN BOOKSELLERS ASSOCIATION

And from the president of one of the largest book publishing companies in the world:

"I find the Columbia Encyclopedia to be a really impressive job of editing, compressing as it does a world of information into one convenient, ready volume. As I always seem to find what I want to know from it fully, easily, rapidly, it's the encyclopedia I turn to most frequently."

Harold W. McGraw, Jr.
PRESIDENT, McGRAW-HILL, INC.

COMING IN AUGUST—ORDER NOW AND SAVE ON THE LOW INTRODUCTORY PRICE!

This is the era of the knowledge explosion, of turbulent social events, of vast innovations in the sciences. Today, the revered reference sets — the old treasures — that served us for so long are no longer assets. Outdated, cumbersome, often inaccurate now, they are handicaps to those who still refer to them for information in today's fast-moving world.

Clearly, 1975 is the time to update our knowledge of the world's important events, topics, people and places.

It's time to graduate to The New Columbia Encyclopedia. Now going to press, The New Columbia is the most up-to-date and accurate encyclopedia available. This is a general reference volume containing over 2 million facts on a wide range of timely subjects, with articles on arts, literature, geography, life sciences, physical sciences, and social sciences. For the student, executive, homemaker, writer, commentator — for all busy people whose work and advancement depend on up-to-date knowledge — this is the modern reference work. It is complete in one volume. The contents are arranged alphabetically by name and subject, cross-referenced and illustrated to provide rapid reference. The basic information on each item is clearly provided in the first few sentences, with advanced information following. It is thumb-indexed, and provides over 40,000 bibliographies for additional information.

The New Columbia is the choice for busy people. Some folks still believe that to own a good encyclopedia, you have to spend $500 or more for a set of wall-to-wall books. Indeed, they do look impressive. But why spend a small fortune for sets you can't carry to the office, school or wherever you work, when The New Columbia provides over 95% of the information you'll ever need? And why waste time going from volume to volume and back again when you can find it quickly in the one-volume Columbia?

The New Columbia is a masterpiece of the publishing arts. The amazing amount of information is made possible by a computer type face — easier to read, more words to the page — designed in part for this reference work. Imagine 6,375,000 words in a desk-sized volume, measuring just 9 x 12 x 3½ inches! Included are over 52,000 articles covering important events, topics, people and places, both national and international. Every item of accumulated knowledge has been checked, revised, up-dated. Greatly expanded for the contemporary user, this new Fourth Edition contains 7,000 new articles and 700 more pages than preceding editions.

The only encyclopedia published by a university press, The New Columbia is now in its Fourth Edition. Over 1 million copies of previous editions are now in use! While it is neither an official nor unofficial publication of Columbia University, still this reference would not be possible without the university's sources. Of some 90 academic consultants to this work, most are affiliated with that great university.

MADISON HOUSE GIFTS

Young Jack Ford:

"I wish the whole thing with my father had never happened . . . but I'm resigned to making the best of it."

UPI

The President's son, Jack.

By Gary Kinder

Jack Ford is strikingly handsome. He is a well-built six feet, and his hair is blond, not brown as it appears in most pictures. His blue-gray eyes are set in strongly chiseled features, and there's a slight split between his two front teeth that accentuates a hard-to-earn, but warm, smile.

On a recent day when we chatted, Jack was dressed in Levi's, a gray Forest Service shirt, a green vest and, oh yes, moccasins. He shakes hands warmly, lights up a cigarette and settles into a chair.

Since his father became Vice President in October, 1973, Jack admits the Ford family has been much closer. "But I still don't always agree with my father," he says. "And when I don't, people accuse me of being traitorous."

On the Utah State campus in Logan, where Jack is a senior majoring in forestry, he manages to maintain a low profile. He apparently wishes the profile were even lower. "I wish the whole thing with my father had never happened," Jack says, "but I'm resigned to making the best of it. This all-American image of my family is unfair. We're played up to be not just normal, but perfect, and that's not the way it is. We had the same fights at the dinner table as any other family, and I can remember not talking to my mother for days because she wouldn't let me have my own way."

Some people just can't accept all this candor. A few months ago, a reporter from the East was dispatched to get a story on Jack. The result was a scathing article that, in turn, prompted a bagful of hate mail that blasted Jack for having long hair and a beard (which he has since shaved off), and for drinking beer.

Jack lives with his six roommates in a cinnamon-brick house across from the campus. A light-blue Mercury, manned by two Secret Service agents who shadow nearly every move Jack makes, sits ready at the curb.

Inside the house, a red-flowered tapestry covers the arched entrance to the living room, concealing empty beer cans and ashtrays strewn across the large wooden spool and the black footlocker that serve as coffee tables. Record albums are crammed into stacked orange crates; the posters on the wall say "Keep On Truckin'" and "Let's Boogie." A black Secret Service phone is a hotline to the house next door. Even the phone can't elude Jack's playful nature; it boasts imaginary extensions labeled "Moscow" and "Peking."

Talking with Jack, it is easy to see how his opinions get him into trouble. For example, he strongly favors busing. At T.C. Williams High School in Alexandria, Va., Jack had a number of close black friends. "They often protested against many things they felt were unjust, but that never got in the way of our friendship. Busing serves a good purpose. Because of it I was exposed to a new culture, a new way of life, firsthand."

He doesn't always disagree with his father. For example, at first he was in favor of total amnesty for those who fled the Vietnam draft. Now he's not so sure. "The people who did go fight in Vietnam must be considered too. I would like to think that if I had gone over there I would still be for total amnesty, but I didn't go, so I can't say. But I think that those who did go would be bigger men for forgiving."

After he graduates this spring, Jack plans to start a consulting firm in management of natural resources. He'd also like to have a master's degree in watershed management. He said he doesn't care to seek an active role in politics at this time, but adds, "I won't back away from the opportunity should it present itself in the future."

Late for intramural football practice, Jack cranks up his 250 cc Kawasaki dirt bike and barrels over to the field, followed closely by the light-blue Mercury. In recent history there have been no first families with grown sons, so there is no precedent for Jack to follow. One gets the feeling that even if there were, Jack probably wouldn't follow it anyhow.

Now! With the simple method of Foot Reflexology!

'You Can Get Almost Immediate Relief from Aches and Pains All Over the Body!'

"I have brought relief to countless suffering people with this method—and have watched their joy of regained health and vitality—when all hope had seemingly been lost!"

"Let me show you how it can bring about the normal function of a specific location or organ..."

Says MILDRED CARTER, Professional Reflexologist

Dear Friend:

My name is Mildred Carter. I am not a doctor, but for over 14 years, I have been helping people receive remarkable relief from seemingly hopeless aches and pains all over the body, with a method—which you can use, too—called Foot Reflexology.

Foot Reflexology is a method for healing the whole body. If you've ever suffered from foot trouble, you know that it's the feet that make the whole body ache. By rubbing and pressing gently on certain areas of your feet, I can show you how you may get almost immediate relief IN OTHER PARTS OF THE BODY!

Why? Because the feet contain Reflexes, which lead like telephone lines to all parts of the body. By pressing them, you help restore normal circulation and health to congested areas. No one can guarantee a cure, nor is it a medical substitute, but:

- I have seen it relieve crippled hands and feet, caused by painful arthritis, straighten whole bodies and bring them back to normal!
- It can stop the pain of hemorrhoids almost immediately!
- Most headaches vanish immediately with this method!
- I have seen it relieve liver and gall bladder trouble!
- I have seen it clear up stuffed sinuses almost immediately!
- I have seen it relieve back troubles, in a matter of seconds!
- I have seen it bring fast relief to stomach troubles!
- I have brought lasting relief to sufferers of varicose veins with this method. This is also true with cramps or pains in the legs!
- I have seen it relieve bladder trouble quickly, with great relief after the very first treatment—all sensation of burning or itching seems to disappear completely!
- This simple method can bring women blessed relief from many disorders which may have been troubling them for years!
- I have brought relief to men, in every case of prostate trouble I have ever treated with this method!

...And still that's just the beginning! You'll find the full details of this amazing method of healing in a new book which I have written, called HELPING YOURSELF WITH FOOT REFLEXOLOGY. I'll tell you how to get it in just a moment, but first I want to tell you more about it!

Many Healings Reported!

Foot Reflexology is a safe, natural, and inexpensive way to help restore healthful circulation to every area of your body.

Did you ever notice how quickly water freshens when good water is poured into muddy water? Foot Reflexology does the same for circulation in your body. Blood flow slows over the years. Naturally, glands and organs become sluggish. Stimulating a new flow of blood to these "tired" places brings new life, clears glands and organs of years of accumulated waste.

Healings and relief from discomforts of all sorts are reported, by the dozen, in the pages of my book. All were obtained with the help of Foot Reflexology.

Here's What I Say In This Book:

Gall Bladder Healing "There are many cases where Reflex Massage of the liver and gall bladder has saved people from having an operation, with the stones seeming to vanish after a few treatments."—Quoted from Chapter 12

Anemic Conditions "Anyone who is anemic will find ... improvement can be so rapid it is amazing. With pernicious anemia, results will be slower, but Nature will be there, changing new blood cells for old."—Quoted from Chapter 11

Helping the Heart "No matter what the nature of the trouble is, the heart can be aided with this method.... I can give you many case histories of wonderful results from this scientific massage of the reflexes on heart patients."—Quoted from Chapter 13

Relief for Leg Pain "I believe I have treated more cases of leg aches than any other malady, and most were caused by the sciatic nerve. Many people suffer for years without any relief. Yet it is so amazingly simple to banish all inflammation from this nerve in an unbelievably short time. In many cases this method has brought relief in one treatment."—Quoted from Chapter 22

Varicose Veins "I have brought lasting relief to sufferers of varicose veins by starting the proper circulation with Reflex Massage, thus causing congestion to disappear. This is also true with cramps or pains of any kind in the legs."—Quoted from Chapter 16

Relief for Hemorrhoids "Hemorrhoids are nothing more than a congested vein (known as piles). This is actually a varicose vein in the rectum. These can become so large as to protrude, causing inconvenience, much suffering, and in many cases bleeding. Though painful, they are usually suffered in silence by those who have them. Yet with Reflex Massage they are one of the quickest to respond to treatment. Here we will learn how to use the Reflexology method to bring you prompt relief!"—Quoted from Chapter 21

How to Make Reflexology Your Rejuvenator "Would you like to be young again? Would you like to walk expectantly into the future, to enjoy new experiences, with a revitalized body? We do not have to be old... Reflexology rejuvenates the entire body, giving new life to glands and cells. Blood flow slows over the years. Naturally, glands and cells become sluggish. Reflexology stimulates a new flow of blood to these tired places, clears glands and cells of accumulated waste, brings them new life!"—Quoted from Chapters 3 and 24

You'll Discover...

- How Reflexology relieved a man's stuffed sinuses. "After the first treatment, he could suddenly breathe through both sides of his nose" and he felt well again.
- How a woman who had hurt her spine, and was in so much pain that she called a bone specialist to take x-rays, received so much relief with Reflexology—after a single treatment—that she was able to get up and do her work. She felt so much better, in fact, that she cancelled her appointment for x-rays, and claims she is fully recovered.
- How a man with a hunchback—a huge, ugly bulge—received a complete healing with Reflexology. He was freed of pain, and "he was able to stand straight." The hump disappeared. "He was not deformed at all," I reported!
- How a man who suffered from ulcers, kidney trouble, hay fever, and constipation, received complete relief with Reflexology. "The symptoms of each illness disappeared one by one," and today he sleeps like a baby every night!
- How a man with a heart condition was healed with Reflexology. Doctors had always warned him he couldn't do the things other men did. With this method, "his heart returned to normal enough to allow him to do anything he wanted, without any trouble. Today, after more than 10 years, he is a strong and well man."

IMPORTANT NOTE:

If foot reflexology therapy does not work after giving it a sincere try, consult your doctor. You will not have harmed yourself. In the very attempt of self-help, you will have done yourself a lot of psychological good.

My name is Mildred Carter. I am not a doctor, but I have been helping people receive remarkable relief from seemingly hopeless aches and pains!

What A Physiotherapist Says:

"During my forty-eight years as a Physiotherapist in my own Treatment Centers ... I have had every opportunity to observe the amazing benefits of manual massage. As a means of rehabilitation where physical trauma is involved, it ranks high in the annals of Medicine.

"The techniques described in Mrs. Carter's book have been developed by experts in the field of reflex massage, and we have no hesitation in recommending them.... For the relief of pain, we know of no other means short of opiates to achieve this objective."

— CLARENCE R. MUNROE
Registered Technician, Physiotherapy

AMAZING TRUE Experiences!

"Reflexology will free you from sickness and suffering, and fear of pain, when used correctly."

"There are so many personal experiences which I could recount, stories of illnesses which were relieved by reflex massage, that I find myself wanting to tell all of them at once. I have seen it do marvelous things that surprised me many times when doctors said it couldn't be done.

"If it can do this for others, it can do this for you! I have proven that this method of healing works, in my own experience. Try it on yourself and FEEL the results!"

Safe To Use!

What's more, Foot Reflexology is absolutely safe. It is the "drugless" way to better health, and requires no exercise, no expensive equipment of any kind. It is so simple, and natural, that it is safe to use on anyone, from the youngest baby to the oldest person. In fact, it is a Rejuvenator that can actually win you many years of new youth!

Read It All From Cover to Cover, For 30 Days, Entirely At Our Risk!

I have proven that this method of healing works in my own experience. You owe it to yourself to try it at our risk and FEEL the results And I invite you to do just that! Fair enough? Why not send in the coupon—TODAY!

THE HAMILTON MINT PRESENTS

The Official Krewe of Poseidon 2ND ANNUAL MARDI GRAS KING'S INGOT

MARDI GRAS, the traditional carnival of joy and delight, costumes, romance and uninhibited fun will be celebrated in New Orleans on February 11, 1975. Gaiety will reign supreme with colorful floats, costumed revelers and extravagant parades —all are an annual part of this exuberant celebration to usher in the Lenten Season.

Since 1857, Louisiana Societies called Krewes have organized and sponsored parades, balls and other Mardi Gras festivities. During "Carnival", Krewe members parade and revel in masks and fancy dress. Each Krewe also produces special "doubloons" to commemorate Mardi Gras. These prized collector pieces have been virtually impossible for the general public to obtain.

But now, to make a collectors' piece that will be a treasured heirloom, the famous Poseidon Krewe of New Orleans has appointed and authorized The Hamilton Mint to strike The Official Poseidon Krewe Mardi Gras King's Ingot.

H. Alvin Sharpe, the only living master of the demanding intaglio method of engraving and himself a resident of historic New Orleans, has been commissioned to design and engrave this special ingot. The result is an astonishingly beautiful and imaginative work of medallic art.

THE MARDI GRAS KING'S INGOT

Struck from one ounce of .999 Fine Silver, the finest and purest available, each proof quality gleaming ingot will contain 480 grains of precious metal. Tips 'n' Topics

LAZY COOK'S TRICK

When making a mix-in-one main dish, stir it up in the greased casserole. This saves an extra bowl and cuts down on after-dinner cleanup.

HOW TO STORE BREAD

Enriched bread is a perishable food. It is one of the few perishable products made from relatively non-perishable ingredients—like wheat and flour. The way bread is stored affects its eating qualities. Enriched bread may be stored in the refrigerator to retard mold, but the longer the refrigeration period, the firmer the bread becomes. Refrigeration tends to increase staling. Special wrappers or containers do not offset the effects of cool temperature on bread freshness. Freezing bread for a short time, however, keeps it in its fresh-from-the-oven condition, especially when reheated after thawing.

TURKEY TIPS

Turkey is plentiful right now and it's good sense to serve it frequently. Turkey is a constant family favorite, and for round-the-clock recipe possibilities why not try creamed turkey on whole wheat waffles (made from the new mix), turkey and fresh-fruit salad or roasted cranberry-apple glazed turkey breast?

PROTEINS FOR PENNIES

Sardines, those tasty silver fish found packed in oil or tomato sauce in every grocery store, are an excellent source of protein. A 4-oz. can supplies 45 percent of the recommended adult daily allowance of protein and calcium, as well as significant amounts of phosphorus and iron. The current retail price of a 4-oz. can of sardines ranges between 20 and 30 cents. Larger cans average 45 cents per can.

Bake for 30 minutes. Makes 5 servings

BAKED CHEESE SANDWICH

A SPECIAL NEW DECORATING OFFER!

...Our agent in the orient discovered this exquisite collector's piece, rich in ancient Chinese mysticism!

"THE CHINESE WISHING LIGHT"

(breathtakingly beautiful lamp is cordless!)

An incredible reproduction of the time honored household gods of ancient China. Each of the dieties is molded in jewel-like hues and lit by bulbs concealed inside. Prosperity, Longevity and Happiness are the three gods to whom the Chinese directed their every wish and hope for countless centuries. Today they're yours to glorify any shelf, table or mantel with their mystical glow.

There is Fu-Sing, the god of happiness, in jade green. His petition to the Emperor brought peace to his native land and happiness to his people. The coral-red god of prosperity is Lu-Sing . . . the people prayed to him for an abundant harvest in elaborate ceremonies each year. Finally there's the old god Shou-Sing . . . the god who decides the date of every man's death . . . reproduced here in ivory white. These three ancient gods are combined . . . as tradition would have it . . . on a jet black pedestal.

We hope you'll find this lamp a colorful addition to your home. In China, gods like these were the center of oriental life. Today you can have them for your home along with an interesting narrative filled with myths and fables about these three gods. Battery operated, with an almost unnoticeable switch. Jewel-toned Chinese gods are approximately 5", the pedestal 2½ x 7 x 1¼" high, made of plastic. We hope that Long Life, Prosperity and Happiness find their way into your home. Uses 6 "C" batteries. Not included.

So Huge, It Makes Your Eyes Pop

Although we show you the One Pound Penny in true and actual size, without the slightest magnification or camera trickery whatsoever, a flat black-and-white reproduction cannot begin to convey how eye-popping huge a 3½-inch-wide, ¾-inch-thick penny really is. You have to see it for yourself next to an ordinary penny which barely makes it to ¾ of an inch in diameter and is a mere 1/16th of an inch thin!

Authentically Reproduced Front

The front of this beautiful ingot is a meticulous replica in high bas relief of the Lincoln Head Penny. Back is numbered. Here's one penny that makes a lot of sense as a great gift, an exciting conversation piece, an impressive paperweight—or frame it for a real heavyweight of a collector's prize! Your baby's first foods should be plain and simple.

When your baby nears his first month, his world begins to broaden. Eyes begin to follow light . . . tiny fists unfold . . . as he discovers the world around him.

And soon it's time for one of the most unique experiences of all . . . the introduction of solid foods.

It's important that your baby begin on the simple foods. Traditional starters are single-grain cereals . . . one-fruit juices . . . plain strained meats. They'll make up the basic diet for your baby, not only helping to provide adequate nourishment, but also helping to broaden his tastes.

Keeping to the simple varieties at the beginning is important, too, in helping you and your doctor note any unusual reaction to certain foods.

How do you know your baby is ready for solids? It depends on individual needs and your doctor. Now the question is, which food will be used as a starter? For most babies, it's cereal.

Starting with cereal. Gerber single-grain cereals are excellent choices. They have an especially smooth texture. And the flavors are pleasantly bland, the way babies prefer them.

Rice and Oatmeal are the traditional cereals recommended. Like all Gerber dry cereals, each is enriched with iron, thiamin, and other important B-vitamins.

When first introducing cereals, it's a good idea to make the mixture quite soupy (4 or 5 tablespoons of milk or formula to 1 tablespoon of cereal). As baby gets used to the mixture, you can gradually make the cereal thicker.

Meats provide important protein. Simple strained meats are the best starting meats. And Gerber meats are high in the body-building protein that your baby needs during his first year — his fastest year of growth.

Gerber meats are lean and moist. They're processed the Gerber way to retain natural juices and lower the fat level, when necessary.

Time for variety. Your baby's interest in food at 6 months is likely to be higher than it will be at one year, so this is an ideal time to introduce him to a variety of foods.

Let your baby try one new food at a time. Small portions at first, then gradually increase the serving. And if you serve the new food at the beginning of a meal, when he's hungry, he'll probably be more ready to accept it.

Work for a balanced daily diet, including milk and milk products; meat and other protein foods; vegetables and fruits; cereals.

Feeding tips. Should you heat the baby food? Unless your baby likes it that way, it's not necessary. Try warming vegetables and meat, serve fruit and dessert at room or refrigerator temperature. Fruit juices should not be heated; it might destroy the Vitamin C.

Remember, too, that at the beginning, your baby will probably not be eating a full jar of food. So when you don't expect to use it all at one feeding, transfer the portion to be fed to a serving dish. Cover and refrigerate the unused portion. Try not to feed your baby directly from the jar.

And do relax. These are the times when your baby will form associations with food that will stay with him all his life. When mealtime is a happy sharing time, your baby will have a feeling of security and belonging.

Sweet Potato Pie and Two Down-Home

Country singer Charley Pride's latest RCA Records album is called "Pride of America."

"Of course cooks in those days never had any special recipes; it was all in their heads. But somehow everything they prepared tasted delicious."

By Charley Pride
In conversation with Helen Dorsey

I don't know how my mother managed to cook so well for such a large family. I grew up in Sledge, Miss., with seven brothers and three sisters. My mother never had too much to work with, but she seemed to know what she was doing, whether she was cooking for five or 15.

Of course cooks in those days never had any special recipes; it was all in their heads. But somehow everything they prepared tasted delicious. I particularly loved my mother's peach preserves. In fact, I've just found someone who fixes them the way she used to. There's a little country restaurant near the Loveless Motel on Highway 100 outside of Nashville where they serve beautiful biscuits and peach preserves.

My mother cooked almost every Southern food you could mention: biscuits, corn bread, fried chicken, turnip greens, collards, black-eyed peas, peach pie or peach cobbler. And her sweet potato pies, how I loved them! My mother's passed on now, but every time I have sweet potato pie, I think about her. My dad's still alive, and he's almost as good a cook as my mother was. I'm lucky, too, that when I married, I gained another mother. [Charley's mother-in-law, Mabel Cohran.] She's a real Southern cook and taught my wife well.

I live in Dallas now. When I really long for food like my mother used to cook, I go to my dad's or my mother-in-law's to get the real black-eyed peas and sweet potato pies. My mother-in-law will tell you how to fix my favorite food.

CHARLEY'S FAVORITE SWEET POTATO PIE

1 cup, cooked, mashed sweet potatoes
½ cup butter, melted
2 eggs, beaten
½ cup milk or half and half
½ teaspoon baking powder
Pinch salt
1 teaspoon ground nutmeg
1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
1 cup sugar, or less if desired
1 unbaked 9-inch pie shell

1. Combine sweet potatoes with all ingredients except pie shell, blending well with electric mixer (or hand-mix using a wooden spoon). Pour into pie shell.
2. Bake in preheated 400°F. oven about 30 minutes, or until golden and puffy. Serve alone or topped with sweetened whipped cream.

Makes one 9-inch pie

BLACK-EYED PEAS

1 ham hock (about ½ lb.)
2 cups water
1 medium-sized onion, chopped, optional
1 cup dried black-eyed peas (soak overnight in refrigerator)
Salt to taste
Pepper to taste

1. Place meat in saucepan with water. Add onion. Cover; cook over low heat about 1 hour.
2. Drain peas, discarding any discolored ones. Add peas to meat; add more water if necessary. Continue cooking about 1 hour, or until peas are tender. Season to taste.
3. To serve, cut meat into small pieces, add to peas. Delicious with corn bread.

Makes 4 servings

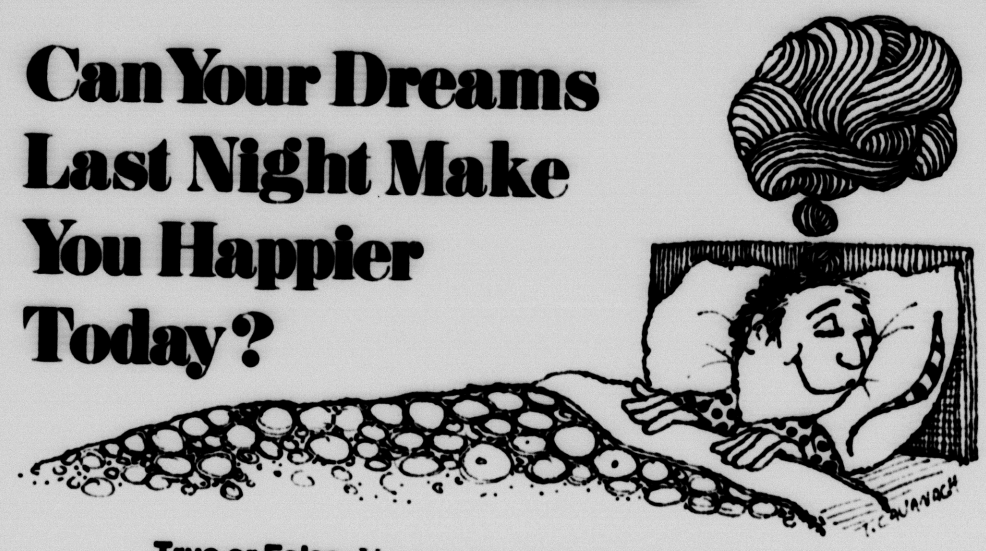
Can Your Dreams Last Night Make You Happier Today?



True or False: Your most productive dreams are likely to occur in the morning hours. (See number 4)

In her new book, "Creative Dreaming" (Simon and Schuster, $7.95), psychologist Patricia L. Garfield explores one of sleep's most fascinating mysteries: the world of dreams. In this quiz, FAMILY WEEKLY quizmaker John E. Gibson looks at some of her most interesting findings.

Dr. Patricia Garfield

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. How much you recall of what you dream tells a lot about your personality.
2. There are tested tricks and devices you can use that will help you remember, relive, and evaluate your dream-life experiences.
3. It is possible to know you are dreaming while you are dreaming.
4. Your most productive dreams are likely to occur in the morning hours.
5. You can learn to control your dreams.

ANSWERS

1. True. Dream-research studies are cited which show that low dream recallers tend to be "conformist, self-controlled and defensive." They are also likely to be "more confident and less self-aware than habitual high dream recallers." On the other hand, it was found that high dream recallers tend to be more anxious, less self-confident, but possess more self-understanding and a keener insight into their innermost feelings and desires. Women, it's noted, seem to have the inside track over men when it comes to remembering their dreams.

2. True. First, use self-suggestion. Tell yourself firmly just before you go to sleep at night that you are going to remember your dreams. Next, to keep a dream from fading out of your consciousness like a wisp of smoke: "Knowing that you have just awakened from a dream, the next step is crucial. Don't open your eyes! Lie still with eyes closed and let images flow into your mind. Don't begin thinking about what you must do for the day. Just let yourself feel. Very often this is enough to allow the images of your just-ended dream to return." And, it's pointed out, the tiniest fragment of the last dream can serve as a hook for the whole night's series of dreams.

3. True. This is called a "lucid dream." Awareness can range from the mere thought that "this is only a dream" to an unbelievable freedom from all restrictions of body, time and space. When you become lucid you can do anything in your dream. You can fly anywhere you wish, experience romance with the partner of your choice, converse with friends long dead or people unknown to you; you can see anyplace in the world you choose, experience all levels of emotions, receive answers to questions that plague you, and, in general, use the full resource of material stored in your mind. You can learn to become conscious during your dreams.

4. True. Dr. Garfield's findings confirm those of another dream scientist. In each case all of the "lucid dreams" they studied—the dreams that could be put to the most constructive use—occurred between 5 a.m. and 8:30 a.m. It's concluded that, "Perhaps it is easier to exert consciousness when more rested." In any case, dreamers are advised that their efforts to become "lucid" in their dreams will be more successful during this period.

5. True. The psychologist reports her findings as follows: You can develop your dream control by keeping a careful diary of your dreams, working with it before and after dreaming, and learning from yourself. The most important goals to achieve during your dreams are developing dream friends, becoming fearless of dream enemies, and becoming conscious of your dream state. Once you are fearless of your dreams, you become free to use them in any way you desire. You may not be able to grow rich through dreams (although even this is possible), but you can assuredly grow happier.

Announcing More

Put your cigarette against it.

What's More? It's a whole new look in cigarettes. A whole new feel. A whole new length.

More is more by design.

It's the first 120 mm cigarette. It was conceived and engineered to give you an all-new smoking experience.

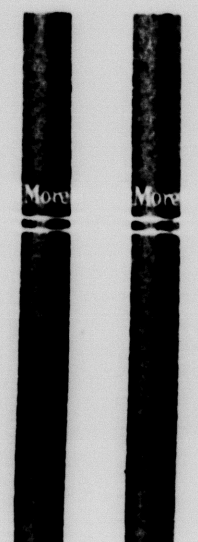
It's a longer and leaner cigarette. (Which makes it look terrific.)

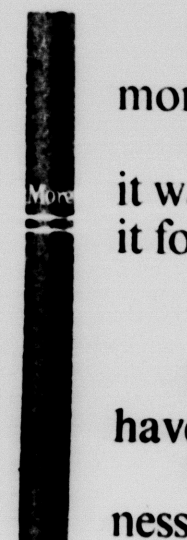
It smokes slower and draws easy for more enjoyment. (Which means more time for those relaxing moments.)

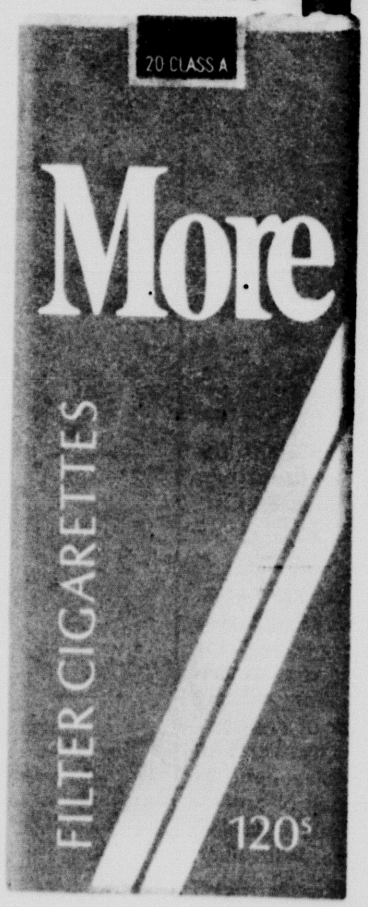
It's More. With over 50% more puffs than a 100 mm cigarette. Yet More doesn't cost more. (Which means more for your money.) And because More is more flavorful (yet surprisingly mild), it will be one of the most satisfying smoking experiences you'll ever have.

New Filter More.
Like no cigarette that ever was.

Because More is a cigarette that offers so much more, we felt it should look like more, too. So we've put it in an all-new cigarette wrap that's a handsome burnished brown.







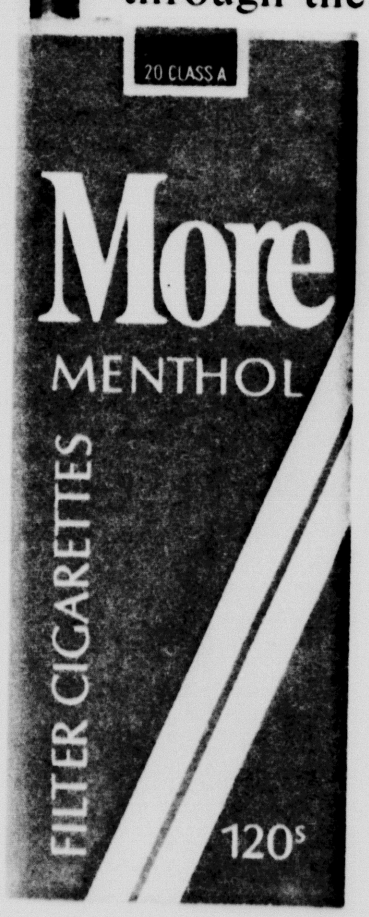
More. It looks like more. It tastes like more. It's more in every way except price.

More. It sits neat in your hand like it was made for it and fits your face like it found a home.

New Menthol More.
It's a cooling blast.

If you like menthol, now you can have More Menthol.

More Menthol gives you more coolness, more tobacco enjoyment. It's the new 120 mm menthol cigarette that starts with a blast, and cruises you through the longest, slowest-burning, coolest-smoking experience you've ever had.



And just like More Filters, More Menthol gives you more for your money.

Over 50% more puffs than a 100 mm menthol cigarette.

More Menthol. Long, lean and burnished brown, it looks as cool as it smokes.

More Menthol. You don't have to pay more to get it. And once you've got it, you'll wonder where it's been all your life.

The first 120mm cigarette.

A FINE ROMANCE
With no kisses . . .

Kiss disability: A London High Court judge has awarded about $5,400 in damages to Mrs. Beryl Drage, 23, who suffered a car crash with her husband some years ago that resulted in her face being so critically disfigured that she is unable to kiss her husband any more. "She has been unable to pucker her lips and this has detracted from the ability to kiss and the physical attraction of kissing," said Judge William Stubb, who would have awarded her more money except that he held Mrs. Drage 15 percent to blame because she was not wearing a seat belt at the time of the accident. "If she had been," said Judge Stubb, "I'm satisfied it would have minimized her injuries." Although Mrs. Drage has had several plastic-surgery operations, she says her lips are numb and she cannot put on lipstick. Her husband Brian seems to love her all the same.

The CBS series "Search for Tomorrow" recently celebrated its 6,000th performance and its 24th year on the air, making it the longest running show on daytime TV. To what does the show owe its success? According to Mary Stuart, who plays the role of Joanne Tate, and who, incidentally, has been with the show since its debut in 1951, "Search" is "much bolder" about life than other shows on the air. Miss Stuart likens it to an "endless novel"—one that has dealt with infidelity, abortion, euthanasia and other strong topics when those subjects were still taboo on other serials. Nobody watching the show could possibly have survived all the tragedies of Joanne Tate—another reason that may explain its longevity. It's nice to know you can flick a switch and find that somebody, somewhere, is worse off than you.

ROGER STAUBACH
Tragedy off the field

Roger Staubach on the death of his fourth daughter: "I identify with other people who have problems. Many things in Vietnam really bothered me. I'll pick up a newspaper and read about tragedy that strikes another family and it really gets to me personally. . . . The death of our baby, Amy, tore us apart. We had been so happy looking forward to the baby's arrival. We were both smiling and happy one day, and the next day I was standing by the grave site with a little box, just a small box, and lowering it into the ground. The words BABY GIRL STAUBACH were put on the grave marker. We never even knew her." From "Staubach, First Down, Lifetime to Go," by Roger Staubach with Sam Blair and Bob St. John (Word Books, $8.95).

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour

VISION OF THE FUTURE

Inflation could be worse, you know,
Though prices rise each week.
It still has quite a way to go,
It hasn't reached its peak.

I learned this from a dream I had,
A supermart the site.
The dream was really pretty bad
And gave me quite a fright.

It seems I pushed two carts
(just look!)
To feed my hungry brood.
One cart was filled with cash it took
To buy the cart of food.

When Bill Brown took his hunting dog out in the field to show him off to several strangers, to his amazement the dog pointed to one of them. "He is smarter than you think," the man said. "My name happens to be Partridge."
—Thomas LaMance

Nobody gives you value any more. Yesterday I bought a package of ladyfingers. Half of them were thumbs.
—Robert Orben

An elderly gentleman sat at a table in the lounge of the country club, slowly reading the obituary column in the local newspaper. Suddenly, his face registered astonishment. "Sam," he whispered to another old club member sitting nearby, "according to this paper, everyone who died yesterday did so in alphabetical order."

The other day I was baby-sitting a little four-year-old girl and she told me that her mother's sister had just had a baby. I told her that I bet it was real cute. She said, "No, it's not a puppy, it's just a baby."
